Revolt of Farm State Republicans Serious Blow to G. O. P.

DEBENTURE IS EXAMPLE
Hoover Meets Same Problem in Senate as One Confronting CoolidgeBY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The west and south and not the Republican party is in control of the United States senate, election returns of last November to the contrary notwithstanding.

The revolt of the western Republicans from the eastern Republicans began during the Harding administration and has continued ever since. First on the equalization fee and now on the export debenture plan these western Republicans by a coalition with the Democrats have proved they can do anything they please in the senate if a majority vote is needed for any proposal.

During the last presidential campaign, Governor Smith of New York tried in vain to have these western Republican senators join the Democratic party but with the exception of Senators Norris of Nebraska, and Blaine of Wisconsin, he acquired no friends in that group while such staunch advocates of farm relief as Senators Borah of Idaho, and Brookhart of Iowa, campaigned vigorously against the New York governor.

The Democratic strategy in the senate has been to bring about the discomfiture of an administration elected on a program of farm relief which was presumed to promise more than the Democratic platform. The farmers of the latter believed in either an equalization fee or the export debenture plan or even an excise tax so the Democrats, by keeping their party lines intact, are really carrying out the purpose of the agricultural group at the Houston convention while the western Republicans are in a sense expressing the views of the protesting minority group who were out-voted in Kansas City.

DEBENTURE TO LOSE

HAGEN WINS
OPEN TITLE
FOURTH TIME

Finishes Six Strokes Ahead of Farrell; Leo Diegel Is Third

Muirfield, Scotland—(AP)—Walter Hagen Friday won the open golf championship of Great Britain for the fourth time with a score of 292 for the 72 holes championship play. Johnny Farrell, open champion of the United States, finished with a sparkling round of 75 and with a 72 hole score of 298 went into second place.

Leo Diegel returned a score of 77 for the last round and with a total of 299 went into third place, behind Hagen and Johnny Farrell and in front of Abe Mitchell and Percy Alliss, who were tied at 300. Bobby Cruickshank, native Scot who lives in New York, finished sixth with a score of 301, Al Watdous, Detroit, seventh with 303, and Gene Sarazen eighth, 304. Tommy Armour, another Scot who lives in the United States, was next with 305 followed by Arthur Havers, former champion, 306.

(By the Associated Press)
Walter Hagen's fourth triumph in the British open championship came after many of the experts had counted "The Hag" out and pictured him as on the downward path. But he duplicated his comeback of 1928. Last year he rallied to win the British title after being crushed by Archie Compston in match play. This year he won after being overwhelmed by George Duncan in the Ryder cup matches.

Hagen's latest triumph represents his eleventh major national championship. In addition to four victories in the British classic he has won the United States open title twice and the United States professional championship five times.

His only rival in this respect in modern golfing times is Bobby Jones, whose collection of eight titles includes four in the United States amateur and two each in the United States and British Opens.

Back in 1914, Hagen, fresh from the caddy house at Rochester, N. Y., won his first American open championship at the Midlothian club, Chicago. He was 22 years old. Five years later he repeated at Brae Burn. He was runner-up in 1921 and occupied third place in 1925, sixth in 1927 and fourth in 1928.

"The Hag" began his invasion of Europe in 1920 and won the French open after finishing fifth in his first try at the British championship.

HOME OF UNION WORKERS

BOMBED IN TENNESSEE

Elizabethton, Tenn.—(AP)—The home of Mack Elliott, a member of the Rayon Workers union at the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff Textile mills here, where a strike has been in progress, was demolished by a bomb early today. Elliott and his family were away at the time. No reason for the bombing was suggested by Deputy Sheriff T. D. Taylor.

The deputy sheriff did not know whether Elliott was a former worker at the American Bemberg or the American Glanzstoff Rayon plants, but was informed that he was attending a union meeting when the detonation shook the town about 12:30 a. m. Elliott's wife and three children were spending the night with relatives.

Presentation At Court
'Thrilling,' Says Helen

But Crowds on Mall, Shouting 'We Want Helen,' Didn't Bother Her

London—(AP)—Helen Wills, who abandoned tennis for royalty for a few hours yesterday, left for the Hague today "a very thrilled" American girl.
The young Californian, who has been through many grueling sports ordeals with unruffled calm, showed a typical debutante's excitement as she related her emotions on her presentation to Queen Mary.
"It was perfectly beautiful," she said as she hurriedly packed her court gown and tennis frocks to catch an early morning train. "I was not a bit nervous. Everything was managed so well that one felt always at ease. It was really beautiful. The whole scene was so colorful. Never as long as I live shall I forget it."Party Heads
Puzzled By
Tariff SplitWashington—(AP)—A pronounced division in Republican ranks over the tariff revision bill, with a large block of members from the agricultural west and some from the industrial east, today had Republican leaders of the house in a quandary.
A conference of the entire Republican membership was called to meet this afternoon after several hours more of general debate on the measure in an attempt to smooth out some of the difficulties. Indications were, however, that further meetings would have to be held before a decision could be reached regarding the procedure under which the measure will be taken up for amendment.

The western complaint against the bill crystallized yesterday even before it was brought up on the floor for the beginning of debate. Republicans from 10 western states joining in criticism of the proposed farm duties, and deciding to ask the Republican caucus today to postpone action on a special rule. Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee, on the other hand, asserted that the rate changes represented a higher average percentage of protection for agricultural commodities than for manufacturers.

Before the day was over the westerners had gained support from the New York Republican delegation, one of whom, Representative Crowther, a member of the ways and means committee, made an appeal for a duty on leather and boots and shoes, all of which remain on the free list in the proposed bill.

GRAMM WILL FACE

Principals in Michaelson Case Return to Their Homes Over Weekend

Key West, Fla.—(AP)—The principals in the Michaelson prohibition law violation case were homebound today. Congressman M. A. Michaelson was speeding to Washington and his brother-in-law, Walter Gramm, toward Chicago.

Gramm, however, must return to Jacksonville next Monday when a federal grand jury will investigate charges that he brought liquor into this country from Cuba. The $2,000 bond on which he was released after his arrest here yesterday on the charge, was made returnable in Jacksonville at that time.

Gramm faces possible indictment on his testimony that he, and not Michaelson, was the owner of the trucks in which station employees in Jacksonville are said to have found 12 bottles of liquor. The baggage was brought through the Key West customs without investigation when the congressman was granted courtesy of the port.

The testimony of Gramm, whom federal attorneys have characterized as the "fall guy" in the case, was largely instrumental in the acquittal of Michaelson, who had been indicted on two charges of importing liquor and transporting it illegally from Key West to Jacksonville.

At his trial, Michaelson denied knowledge of the contents of the trunk of his brother-in-law, and Gramm declined to divulge the ownership of the liquor, standing on his constitutional rights.
The warrant under which Gramm was arrested early yesterday specified he had "unlawfully concealed and facilitated the transportation and concealment of certain merchandise, to wit: 12 bottles of intoxicating liquors which therefore had been imported into the United States at Key West from Cuba."

Fess Attack on "Pseudo-Republicans" Answered by Three Senators

BULLETIN
Washington—(AP)—The senate today refused to give President Hoover the power to fix the salary of the chairman of the proposed farm board and voted to fix his salary at $12,000, the same as for any other members of the board.

The vote was 46 to 32, with the Democrats lining up almost solidly against the proposed presidential power.

BULLETIN
Washington—(AP)—The senate today refused to exclude milk, milk products, fruits and vegetables from the list of agricultural commodities to be affected by the farm relief bill. The vote was 65 to 11.

Washington—(AP)—A final vote early next week on passage of the farm relief bill with its export debenture section was assured today as a result of the senate agreeing to limit debate on the measure and pending amendments at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Chairman McNary of the senate agriculture committee, declared it was his intention to have a vote late today on the Copeland amendment proposing exclusion of fruits and vegetables from the operations of the bill. This is virtually the only amendment which has caused any considerable difference of opinion.

A bulky stack of amendments were still on the clerk's desk but leaders expected few if any of them to provoke much debate.
The senate upon adjournment today will recess over the weekend.

Opening the debate on the Copeland amendment, Senator Trammell, Democrat, Florida, said the fruit industry in his state desired the benefits intended by the farm bill and asked that the proposal be defeated.

Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, his words his amendment to the bill's list of agricultural commodities would include potatoes and grapes, but no other vegetable or fruit, nor would it include milk or milk products.

The export debenture proposal remained the most lively topic of the farm relief discussion on the senate side of the capital today despite the fact it was definitely voted into the bill under consideration there two days ago.

The animosities aroused during the long dispute over the debenture provision, in fact, have almost completely overshadowed the disagreement over the proposal to exclude fruits and vegetables from operation of the farm aid machinery proposed in the measure, which was the subject formally before the chamber for discussion yesterday and today.

The situation was brought into the open by a letter written by Senator Fess of Ohio, the assistant Republican whip, to Marshall Shepperd of Toledo, assailing "Fessie" Republicans for the "break" in the party's ranks over the debenture issue, and naming Senators Borah of Idaho, Nye of North Dakota, and Brookhart of Iowa, specifically in his complaint. Sharp retorts were immediately made by all three of the senators, who supported the chief executive.

PASTOR DIES AFTER
ATTACK BY FOUR MENPortland, Oregon—(AP)—The Rev. Andrew Lajunen, pastor of the Finnish Pentecostal church at Mullan, Idaho, died in a hospital here today from injuries alleged to have been inflicted by four members of his congregation because they objected to a sermon.
Before his death, the minister told detectives that he had refused to give a complaint against the four men, who he was unable to name, and that an investigation of the case by officers at Mullan had been dropped.

The pastor went to Spokane three days after the attack and then came here to visit a friend. His condition grew worse and he entered the hospital. Death was caused by a fractured skull.

OPEN SAFETY PIN IS REMOVED FROM STOMACH OF BABY

Little Agnes Lemmers, 15-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lemmers of Little Chute, is in St. Elizabeth hospital with a good chance to recover after three physicians performed the delicate operation of removing an open safety pin from her stomach.

The baby swallowed the pin last Sunday. The course of the pin, as it worked down the throat and into the stomach, was traced by attending physicians at the hospital with x-ray photographs taken every three hours. Tuesday noon, after the pin had worked around the stomach, the doctors decided to operate.

The operation was successful and although the baby's condition is serious the attending doctors say she will recover.

Exchange Head Demands That Federal Reserve Adopt Hands Off Policy

Chicago—(AP)—H. H. Simmons, president of the New York Stock exchange, declared last night that stock market loans are the base of American industrial welfare and that to reduce them would be to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs of prosperity.

He spoke before the Chicago Stock exchange at its annual dinner.
"I declared that although American business property has continued unabated through a year of high money rates due to the federal reserve system's manipulations, it seems unlikely that our prosperity can be maintained by employing obsolete or fallacious theories of banking practices."

"Any arbitrary curtailment of funds for stock market loans inevitably acts as a curb upon progress and prosperity, since it hinders business capital which their continual development necessitates," Simmons said. "The speedy distribution of American securities, aided by stock market loans, should be cause for national enthusiasm. It is absurd to rejoice in our present day rational industrial prosperity and at the same time to bewail the size of the very stock market loans which have played such a vital part in that prosperity."

"LET US ALONE"
Maintenance of high money rates, he declared, has resulted in deflation of the bond market, since capital has sought the higher rates. "Disturbing threats" have tended to curb outright investment of capital in securities. Simmons called upon the federal reserve system to maintain a "hands off" policy toward the stock market, stating that the market can take care of itself and correct alone any of its faults.The prohibition in the federal reserve act against rediscounting stock market loans were blamed by Simmons for the system's difficulties.
"The federal reserve system faces in the future a situation where extensive rediscounting may prove very difficult because of a lack of rediscountable loans," he warned. "Obviously, under such circumstances, the value of the federal reserve system to American business would decline in proportion. Inevitably the time is coming therefore, when, if only for the good of the federal reserve system itself, the rediscounting of security collateral loans should be undertaken."Cincinnati And New York

21 Army Airplanes Groomed for "Raid" and "Long Range Bomb Attack"

San Diego, Calif.—(AP)—Twenty-one army airplanes were groomed for a takeoff here today on a mission which will include a "raid" on Cincinnati and a "long range bombing attack" on New York.
The planes will travel 4,500 miles, participating in aerial tactics unique in the history of the army air service and will return here June 1.Major Carl Spatz, commander of the army monoplane question Mark on its history making flight just January, headed the aerial unit, which was made up of three transport planes, three bombers and three pursuit ships. Twenty-seven officers and 29 enlisted men comprised the personnel.

Woman Arrested During Raid in New Crusade by State's Attorney

Elgin, Ill.—(AP)—A plea of guilty for "purchasing" liquor will be entered here next Monday by a woman who today arranged her plea after a consultation with State's Attorney George D. Carberry. A fine of $100 and $25 costs will be paid, the attorney announced. The action is taken by Carberry under a revised state statute and is the first of its kind in this state, purchasers of liquor heretofore having been unmolested.

A gallon of "moonshine" found in the 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. Helen Ambrose is the evidence the reform prosecutor will present to Judge U. C. Allen.

"Mrs. Ambrose called on me and wanted to know what her punishment would be if she pleaded guilty. I told her she would be fined $100 and $25 for costs," Attorney Carberry said. "She will plead guilty and pay her fine."

"I am satisfied the purchase of liquor on the woman's part was a commercialized proposition."

SETS PRECEDENT
John Ambrose the woman's husband was fined $200 and costs several months ago for selling liquor. "I believe the Ambrose case will set a precedent for the nation as well as the state," said Mr. Carberry.

"Most people are of the opinion that the man who buys liquor is immune. They are mistaken. Let them read Section 7, Chapter 43, of the revised state statutes."

That section reads:
"No one shall manufacture, sell, purchase, transport or prescribe any liquor unless for some purpose expressly permitted by this act, and in every such case a permit must first be obtained."BILL TO CUT BUREAUS
WINS SENATE APPROVAL

Ladison—(AP)—The number of state governmental divisions would be reduced from 70 to 28 by a measure which received unanimous preliminary approval from the state senate Thursday night.

Senator Walter H. Hunt, Progressive, apparently had expected his bill to meet defeat. His argument against the report of the state and local government committee, which had recommended the measure for indefinite postponement.

Hunt contended that all factions have urged consolidation, and that Governor Kohler advocated it in his message.

"If we are not going to consolidate, let's quit talking about it," Hunt said.

Without dissent the bill was engrossed and sent to the joint finance committee.

JILTED FIANCEE FOR HER CHUM, SUIT SAYS

Rice Lake—(AP)—Because he is charged with causing humiliation and anguish by "throwing her over for her chum," Albert Bochner is being sued for $10,000 by Miss Arlene Kopitz. The suit is to be heard by Judge W. R. Foley at Barron next week.

Both parties are residents of Rice Lake. They became engaged recently and the betrothal was formally announced. Through his fiancée, Bochner became acquainted with her chum, Miss Loretta Forrest. He married her on April 11, the action declares.

After leaving Dayton, the plane will proceed to Middletown, Penn., where it will be refueled and to New York and then return to Middletown, where it will be refueled again, this time at night, for the trip back to Dayton.

The purpose of the maneuver is to demonstrate the usefulness of the refueling plan for sending bombers from a remote base to an attack objective.

Colonel Roosevelt Mentioned as Possibility for Governor's Post

Washington—(AP)—Theodore Roosevelt has been recommended to President Hoover for the governorship of Porto Rico by prominent people both there and in this country but it was said at the White House today that the chief executive so far had received no decision regarding the post.

A number of other names are being considered by Mr. Hoover. Mr. Roosevelt is at present in the latter for China.

It was also said at the White House that announcement of the president's decision might be expected within a "week or two." Brigadier General Frank R. McCoy has been mentioned prominently in connection with the office, but it was suggested today that the president's choice might lie elsewhere.

CHERRY BLOSSOM FETE
WILL OPEN ON MAY 24

Sturgeon Bay—(AP)—A cast of approximately 500 has been assembled for the cherry blossom festival to be held here May 24, 25 and 26. It was announced today by P. P. Gorman, Postville, Ohio, who is in charge of the production.

He declared that after a week's search for talent, the rehearsals are now ready to begin. The pageant, he said, is to portray colorful scenes from the history of Door Co.

Prominent among the cast will be one picturing the advent of the first Jesuit missionary, Pere Andre, in 1670. For this scene a large shrine carved similar to the one at Rowley's is to be erected.

Other scenes are to depict the first wedding in the territory, the first Minnivan services at Ephraim and the big fire of 1871. A second section of the pageant is to be a parade of the nationalities that have immigrated to northeastern Wisconsin.

The cherry blossom queen and her court of honor, selected by a contest closing May 18, will preside over the pageant. A floral parade is to be held on May 25, and a cherry ball is to follow the pageant that night. It will be featured by a "whoopie" carnival.

HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE; LOSS IS $5,000

Sherwood—The home of John Draheim, who conducts a cheese factory five miles west of Hibbert, was completely destroyed by fire at 9 o'clock Friday morning. The loss is estimated at $5,000, partially covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Mrs. Draheim noticed the house filling with smoke and upon going outside, discovered the roof in flames. She immediately called the Hibbert fire department, and notified neighbors. All the furniture was saved. A cheese factory near the home was not threatened with fire by a south wind. Mr. and Mrs. Draheim plan to rebuild at once.

Beleaguered City Successfully Repels First Attack of Invasion

Shells Fall Near Foreign Concessions—City Is Under Martial Law

Canton, China—(AP)—Beleaguered Canton today successfully suppressed the first fighting to grow out of the invasion of Kwangtung province by the Kwangsi military faction, silencing and forcing surrender of four gunboats in the harbor which rebelled.

A combined attack of a lone but effective airplane and of the land batteries of Macao and Honam Islands caused the warships to flee to positions between American and British warships in the harbor. They were eventually boarded and disarmed.

The attack occurred off the borders of the Shantung foreign concession and caused consternation there, both foreigners and Chinese being panic-stricken. There possibly were some casualties in the concession, several shells having fallen there.

Meanwhile the entire city was under martial law and in a generally peaceful condition with predictions being freely made that its fall to the advancing Kwangsi armies could be expected within a day and a half. There was only the most scanty information regarding military developments, however, due to the rigid censorship imposed by the Chinese authorities.

ADMIRAL FEELDUSTIC
A long note of optimism was heard in the statement of Admiral Chan, commander-in-chief of the Cantonese navy, who said he believed the tide was turning in Kwangtung's favor. Reinforcements were expected from south Hunan to attack Kwangsi on the north.

Thus with Yunaness attacking from the west would relieve the pressure on Kwangtung, he said.

The revolt of the Cantonese fleet seemed at first an attempt to escape from the harbor of four gunboats, commanded by a vice commander of the navy, W. J. Chang, often described as "China's Lindbergh," took the air above the ships and bombed them, also raking their decks with machine gun fire.

The batteries on Macao opened fire while the machine gun placements on Honam Island peppered the ships with small shot. Realizing escape was impossible, they took refuge in an area occupied by seven foreign warships, among them the U. S. S. Tulsa and the U. S. S. Guam.

The foreign authorities did not at first act on Canton's request to withdraw so that bombardment of the ships could continue, but shortly asked the Chinese commanders to leave the vicinity, since shell fire from the land batteries seemed likely to inflict damage on Shantung and the ships themselves.

This Chinese commander refused to do so, stating that he wished to fight neither with the Kwangsis nor with Kwantung and wanted only to remain neutral. The ships finally surrendered, however.

Waupaca—(AP)—Accused of obtaining money under false pretenses in an industrial venture launched here a year ago, J. E. Fuller, Rockford, Ill., was acquitted by a jury here Thursday. BOOTLEG FOR INDIAN
THAN FOR WHITE MAN

Milwaukee—(AP)—The federal court here today held that while an Indian is a citizen of the United States, he is also a ward of the government and the sale of liquor to an Indian constitutes a different offense than sale to an ordinary citizen.

Judge F. A. Geiger made the ruling in denying a demurrer to the action against Joe Messard, an Oconto Co. farmer, who was charged with selling liquor to an Indian. His attorney argued the offense was not different from one in which an ordinary citizen was involved. U. S. District Attorney Levis Bancroft, however, held that the evidence against Messard was insufficient and the case was nolle at his request.

Three other liquor defendants pleaded guilty and one was acquitted.

500 Hear Pleas For Cooperation Of Schools, Parents

LOW PAY MEANS POOR MENTORS, BOARDS TOLD

Pay Adequate Salaries Troubles Will Be Less, Dick Says in Address

Greater cooperation between county school board members, parents, teachers and children was urged in four talks at the opening session of county rural school board convention at Wilson Junior high school Friday morning.

Approximately 500 people attended the meeting. Speakers were A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools; Gus Sell, county agent; W. P. Hagman, principal of County Normal school at Kaukauna, and George S. Dick, state rural school supervisor.

Registration of members of the board opened at 9 o'clock. Approximately 400 board members were registered when opening session closed at 11:45 Friday morning.

The speeches constituted the first of the three major events scheduled for the day. Other events were the seventh annual county track meet and the annual school music demonstration.

The meeting here was the first spring session of county school boards in the state, it was reported by Mr. Dick. Other counties will hold their meetings during the next two months, he stated.

In his speech on Waste in Education, Mr. Dick outlined the factors which are tending to break down the unity of county school board administrations.

"One of the chief reasons for trouble in the state today is the quality of teachers that is enjoyed," Mr. Dick stated. "Many boards boast of how they cut down expenses. They are proud of the fact that they are capable of employing teachers at meagre salaries."

"In the majority of cases the teachers are as poor as the salaries." Such cases are causing the biggest waste in education in the state. Get good teachers and pay them a fair and decent salary.

"Don't handicap teachers by cutting down on supplies. Furnish all necessary text books, pencils, paper and other equipment without spending days arguing about the budget. The budget will adjust itself, providing the board is properly controlled. The trouble with many boards is that they spend hours arguing about the minor things and fail to see the destructive factors creeping into their administration."

"There should be harmony between the county school superintendent's office and school board. In many counties an antipathy has grown up tending to disrupt the institution. They look upon the superintendent as a domineering lord who is always looking for trouble. There should be a cheery aspect in the school room when the superintendent pays a visit," Mr. Dick said.

"The work being done in Outagamie-co rural schools is on a pleasingly high level as compared to work in other counties," Mr. Meating stated in his address on Supporting a County Program of Education.

"It has been a fine spirit of cooperation between county school board members and the Wisconsin Parent-Teachers' associations, and it is necessary that these harmonious relations continue."

"During the past year there has been a marked improvement in the work of children. State reports indicate that the best work being done in educational circles is in county schools. This has been brought about through securing better teachers, and the cooperation of the boards through special meetings with Parent-Teacher associations. Problems of teachers and students should be handled through the boards and not through frequent interfering conferences with teachers," Mr. Meating stated.

"The program of projects is one of the best assets of the county school administration. Through the study project, students are able to grasp things more easily, and through the publication of school papers parents and members of the board keep in constant contact with conditions in various schools."

"Parent-Teachers' associations are invaluable assets to the system of rural schools, and meetings held in this county during the past year were not merely social gatherings. Many valuable projects were accomplished."

PROGRAMS IN MUSIC
"Through county contests such as track meets, spelling and arithmetic meets, students have been kept busy during their leisure moments. The music program in this county is a new project and in spite of the severe winter month has been accomplished by music supervisors," Mr. Meating said.

"The four-fold program of 4-H clubs in the county has done much toward the betterment of students, both in school and home circles," Gus Sell, county agent stated in his talk on the Education Value of 4-H Clubs.

"Through the 4-H club program students are learning to do by doing. One of the pleasing features of the program is the interest being shown by rural school teachers. Their interest has been a stimulant to students who formerly showed the improper spirit toward a 4-H club."

Mr. Sell predicted a great future for 4-H clubs and stated that the present organizations formed a nucleus of those who are to come.

SENATE FIFTH WHEEL IN U. S. GOVERNMENT, ILLINI DEAN WRITES

Chicago (AP)—John H. Wigmore, dean of the Northwestern University Law school, declared in an article appearing in the current Illinois Law Review that the United States senate is a "fifth wheel" in federal government, useless for any purpose except to "talk, investigate, censor and intrigue."

"The more the bar can see of the federal senate as a constitutional Mussolini," said Dean Wigmore. "Year after year," he stated, "the executive department recommends simple measures of legislation to remedy hardships and evil conditions. Year after year congress does nothing."

Dean Wigmore said the senate is notorious for its mania for committee investigation and added that the more the bar can see of the federal senate as a legislative failure, the sooner the bar will wake up to its duty of leading public opinion to a reform.

FRANZKE QUOTES EXPERTS TO SHOW DEMOCRACY FAILS

Lawrence Man Discusses Government for Green Bay Lions

Corruption in various branches of city, state, and federal government is regarded by noted students of world problems as the most outstanding proof that democracy has failed as a form of government, according to Prof. A. L. Franzke, of the public speaking department of Lawrence college, in an address to the Lions' club in Green Bay Tuesday.

"Unequal distribution of wealth, restricted prosperity, the concentration of wealth by a limited few, also has been advanced as further proof that true democracy is impossible under the present form of government," continued Mr. Franzke.

"The strength of a government lies primarily in its ability to enforce laws. The present disregard for law refuses more than anything else the belief that democracy is a success. The most vital and fundamental purpose of government is its ability to enforce laws."

The speaker pointed out that he was not drawing on his own views about the political situation, but was citing beliefs of prominent men both of this country and abroad. He quoted many men who have made a study of democracy and told how they have come to the conclusion that democracy is a failure. Prof. Alexander Meiklejohn's expression that "Democracy is a self-evident failure, a delusion, a gospel, a dream" was the most impressive observation given about the situation.

Mr. Franzke also traced the growth of the present form of government, telling of its origin with the drafting of the constitution and its constant expansion in an attempt to make it work.

HELEN THRILLED AT PRESENTATION

downs of her limousine, however, Miss Wills could be seen, quite calm as on a tennis court, unperturbed by the jostling throng.

The brilliant ceremonial began with the queen entering the throne room as two bands played the national anthem in nearby alcoves. She took her place on the throne by the side of that ordinarily occupied by King George, who is recuperating from his illness at Craigwell place.

The prince of Wales took his place among other members of the royal family at her side. He was dressed in the uniform of a colonel of the Welsh guards.

Queen Mary wore a tissue gown of changeable form of amber-colored dress in soft pastel shades and a train of Indian brocade shaded to tone with the gown and lined with pale gold and pastel chiffon tissue. She had a diamond and pearl diadem and ropes of pearls and diamonds, with family orders glittering on her breast.

As the court chamberlain called the names of the guests each walked the distance of the throne room to the front of the queen and curtsied once to the queen. The individual ceremony took hardly more than half a minute, the brief period constituting in most cases culmination of considerable time and expense.

Presented with Miss Wills last night were seven other American girls. Eight others are to be presented in the court tonight.

PARLIAMENT IS ENDED BY KING'S ORDER

Nominations for New Body in Great Britain to Close May 20

London (AP)—The British parliament which has been in existence since the general election of 1924 when the Ramsay MacDonald Labor government was defeated came to an end today.

In accordance with British practice limiting the life of parliament to five years. Nominations for the new parliament will close on May 20 and a general election throughout Great Britain will be held ten days later.

Parliament was prorogued shortly after noon today following delivery by proxy of a speech from the throne in which the work of the parliament was reviewed.

BRITISH MONARCH BACKS AMERICAN MOVES FOR PEACE

London (AP)—The British parliament was prorogued shortly after noon today following delivery by proxy of a speech from the throne. Dissolution was to follow later this afternoon by an act of the king in his privy council at Craigwell house, Bognor, where he is recuperating from his long illness.

The prorogation was preliminary to holding of the general elections May 30, and for most of the members of the commons end of a full five years term in the legislative body.

His majesty's speech was read by Lord Hatfield, the lord chancellor, before the commons and the lords assembled in the chambers of the House of Lords.

In it King George placed himself and his government back of new activities of the United States in pursuit of world peace and international disarmament.

He specifically mentioned the "sellers' anti-war pact and the peace of Ambassador Gibson at Geneva seeking broad naval disarmament."

The king deplored the existing unemployment, and indicated there must be a large scale redistribution of workers owing to the altered needs of industry.

Craigwell house, Bognor, and King George signed a proclamation dissolving parliament.

Parliament met early today and as soon as a few odds and ends of business had been cleared up members of the commons were summoned to the house of lords to hear the proroguing speech read on behalf of the king.

Meanwhile arrangements had been completed at Bognor for the king to hold a privy council and to dissolve parliament as soon as word of its prorogation was received from London. This was an act which the king must do himself and had to await actual prorogation before it could be constitutionally performed.

SIMPLE CEREMONY
Parliament's end came simply and with little ceremony. After the last bits of leftover business in commons had been cleared up, the black rod appeared summoning the commons to the house of lords to hear the king's speech and the prorogation proclamation. Led by the speaker of the house, the comparatively few members present trooped through corridors to the house of lords and silently heard the lord chancellor acting for the royal commission read his majesty's formal summing up of the government's activities during the session.

After the speech was read the commons returned to their own chamber where the speaker announced the prorogation. Immediately afterwards, in accordance with custom, a formal farewell by the members to the speaker began. The speaker, seated at the clerk's table, first shook hands with Venerable T. P. ("Tay Pay") O'Connor, father of the house, who is suffering from rheumatism and was wheeled up in a chair. Premier Baldwin, followed by other ministers also went through the formula of farewell handshakes.

WHOOPIING COUGH IS INCREASING IN CITY

Whooping cough continues to be the chief worry of city health officials, according to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer. Almost 100 patients are under quarantine, and the number of cases appears to gradually be increasing instead of decreasing.

Scarlet fever also is holding its own in Appleton, 11 patients still being confined to their homes with this disease. Although the quarantine on several cases has been lifted, three or four new cases have cropped up, keeping the total number at approximately the same figure.

ENGAGE 2 MEN TO OVERSEE BUILDING

Committee Appoints Inspectors for Sanatorium Addition Construction

Edward Wettengel, Appleton architect, was engaged as supervising engineer to oversee the construction of the addition at Riverview sanatorium, at a meeting of the county board building and grounds and sanatorium committees and the sanatorium trustees at the courthouse Thursday afternoon. He is to receive $2.50 per hour for the job.

The committee also voted to engage Arthur Hantschel, Appleton, as superintendent of construction for the job. His salary will be $5 per day for actual time spent in work. The two men act as the county's inspectors on the job.

Following an opinion offered by Stanley A. Staidl, district attorney, who told the committees that he felt the sanatorium and building and grounds committee should continue to oversee the construction work the two committees voted to include the sanatorium trustees in the work.

There had been a dispute as to which of the committee was to have charge of the work.

After the meeting at the courthouse the committees visited the sanatorium to inspect the work that has already been done on the addition. The members, following the inspection, voted to authorize the McMahon Engineering company of Menasha, to prepare plans for a roadway to be cut in the hillside on the northern side of the present building. The plans for the new road and the estimated cost are to be presented to the next meeting of the committees.

RURAL RESIDENTS GATHER HERE FOR ANNUAL PROGRAMS
More Than 2,000 Adults and Children in Attendance at Three Events

More than 2,000 rural school pupils, their teachers and parents, and members of rural school boards were gathered in Appleton today to attend the three events being staged here.

The first of the features was the rural school board convention this morning at the Wilson Junior high school with more than 500 members in attendance.

At 1 o'clock a chorus of more than 1,000 children demonstrated the music program which has been given in about 40 rural schools since last fall. This demonstration was under direction of Dr. Earl Baker, head of the public school music department at Lawrence Conservatory of Music, and Misses Lorene Fredrickson and Carl Short, rural school music supervisors.

At 10 o'clock this morning the students gathered at the chapel for the only rehearsal which preceded the demonstration.

From the chapel the entire group was transported to Pierce park in two busses furnished by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. Basket lunch was served at noon.

After the music demonstration the school board convention was to convene at Wilson school for its final session while the students and teachers were to attend the seventh annual track meet staged at Wilson athletic field.

Eighty athletes, champions of eight districts, took part in the contests. The boy and girl making the best individual records and the school making the best record, are to be awarded loving cups by the Appleton Post-Crescent. Winners of first, second and third place in each event will receive medals.

MOVIE ACTRESSES FAIL TO HELP SOLVE MYSTERY
Los Angeles, Calif. (AP)—Questioning of Natalie Joyce and Mildred Harris, motion picture actresses, failed to throw any light on incidents which led to the death recently of Delphine Walsh, Hollywood dancer, William A. Byrne, special agent of the State Board of Medical Examiners, announced here today.

Miss Walsh died after an asserted illegal operation. Dr. P. S. Traxler and Dr. R. S. Lanterman were arrested and charged with murder.

Miss Joyce told the investigator that she had not seen Miss Walsh for a year.

OPEN MUNICIPAL GOLF COURSE TO PUBLIC SATURDAY

Fairways and Greens Are in Excellent Condition, Board Reports

The municipal golf course will be opened for play Saturday. It was announced Friday by E. H. Harwood in behalf of the park board.

The course is in excellent condition, and the permanent greens will be used immediately. All the fairways were mowed this week, and the greens were to be mowed again Friday, insuring the most favorable playing conditions for the opening day. Ideal weather this past week has entirely dried up the course.

Several improvements were made this spring, Mr. Harwood reported. The greens have been top-dressed, and depressions in the fairways, left when stumps were removed, have been filled. The clubhouse also has been rearranged, the partition in the middle of the building having been removed. Tables and chairs will be placed in the clubhouse for the accommodation of players. The porch at the front of the building will be glass-enclosed this spring, and also will be equipped with tables and chairs.

The fees for play will be 35 cents for nine holes and 50 cents for 18 holes, the same charge as last year. The most direct route to the course from the center of the city is to follow S. Oneida-st. to E. Fremont-st., and turn east on E. Fremont-st. The course is located on Fremont-st. about nine blocks east of S. Oneida-st.

MUST OBSERVE RULES

"The management will insist this year that players observe golf etiquette," Mr. Harwood said. "The park board asks the cooperation of every player in this respect. The course, after all, belongs to the public, and it is the care given it by the public that will determine the condition the grounds will be in later in the season."

Women players are requested not to play while wearing high heeled shoes. Each player also will be required to have his own set of clubs. Two or three persons wishing to play with clubs out of only one bag will not be permitted on the course, as this practice holds up the progress of players following. And stress again will be laid on the importance of using no clubs but putters on the greens. One green was damaged considerably last fall by a player who attempted a mashie shot off the green, it was reported.

Players will not be permitted to crowd about the first hole. They will be required to remain in front of the clubhouse, which is located directly across the road from the first tee, and a song will announce each one's turn at the tee. Nobody will be permitted to drive until the preceding players are 200 yards away.

Three School Bands Combine To Play Concert

THEY played in the chapel, but you could hear them for blocks around. The above picture shows the three Appleton student bands which presented the third program of the Music Week schedule at Lawrence Memorial chapel Wednesday evening. The performance demonstrated the progressive work in band instruction which starts in the junior high school, continues through senior high school, and culminates in college. Prof. E. C. Moore of Lawrence Conservatory is director of the three bands.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND ENTERS STATE TILT

School Musicians Compete in Contest at Stevens Point

Appleton high school band has been entered in the state high school band tournament which will be held at Stevens Point on May 16, 17, and 18. At least one hundred bands will compete for state honors in the four divisions. Appleton will try for the prize in the class A division on Saturday, May 18.

The band has been working on three selections, Forward March, L. Arlesline Suite, and Valse Triste for the tournament. These numbers were very successfully presented at the public concert of the school bands of the city on Wednesday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

The band, which has fifty members, is directed by E. C. Moore of Lawrence Conservatory, and director of the city's school bands. A number of new instruments including thirteen clarinets, two trombones, and two coronets have been purchased for the group.

Single expert judges of the tournament will be A. A. Harding of the University of Illinois. A. R. McAllister of Joliet will be critic. His criticisms will not be considered in giving places but merely as an aid to perfecting the bands.

The Richland Center high school band, last year's winner in Class A, has won the state trophy three times in succession and thereby became its permanent possessor. It was entitled to go direct to the national contest at Denver, but due to lack of funds has again entered the state contest. Last year Appleton high school entered in Class C and won first place in that division. The division which a high school will enter is determined by the average number of months of training of its members. Schools are allowed to enter divisions higher than their rank but not lower. Appleton high school band members have an average of 17 months of training.

Modern Gardens Taking On Brilliant Colors

In this jazz age mild color schemes of pink, lavender and gray are coming to be regarded by some garden makers as Victorian repressions, thus being the period in which they received their most strenuous advocacy. Gardens are taking on more brilliant color. Then anathema against red in the garden frequently heard a few years ago is giving way to an appreciation of the brighter colors.

In the scarlets, the peony-flowered opium poppies give some gorgeous flaming colors which are enjoying a renewed popularity and are encroaching on the Shirley poppy types which for a time usurped the bulk of poppy admiration. Scarlet zinnias add to the warm-colored section of the garden and the salvia is finding a place for its brilliant flaming scarlet in late summer.

The marigolds, with their oranges, browns and crimsons, are indispensable in the highly colored garden and with their near relatives, the calendulas, are being grown more and more. A new calendula, the most brilliant orange yet introduced, is offered among the novelties this year, the Radio. The 'Ball calendulas' in both yellow and orange make the older types look insignificant.

The California poppies give brilliant yellow and orange with some fine crimson varieties. The small flowered annual sunflowers, now in both yellow and red-marked types, add to the gayety of the garden and offer a tall subject of value.

An old timer, which has made its appearance in florists' windows and has found garden recognition again, is Florida's Paint Brush or the 'tassel flower' of our grandmother's gardens. This botanically was known in the older days as Cacalia coccinea and is sometimes so catalogued now. Its modern botanical name is Emilia flammea. It has long stemmed clusters of brilliant orange scarlet tassels that make fine subjects for cutting.

And in the galaxy of reds, yellows and oranges the old favorites, the nasturtiums, are the reliables of the garden, giving a wealth of material for bowls on the table all summer.

ARE YOU FAIR WITH YOURSELF

Not if you are facing illness and suffering with constipation and filling your blood stream with bacteria that should be eliminated which is responsible for pimples, boils, sallow complexion and dizzy spells, lots of people suffer with headaches not knowing that constipation may be the cause of their many troubles.

But not so with Mrs. Jennie Kedell, Route 6, Appleton, Wis., she says: "I couldn't stand any noise about the house I was so nervous, my hands trembled. Drowsiness soon rid me of stomach trouble and nervousness."

EDITOR QUILTS DURING PAPER STOCK PROBE

Southern Newspaper Man Tells About Part Played by International

Washington (AP)—Charles O. Hearon, editor of the Spartanburg, South Carolina, Herald and Journal has submitted his resignation to William Lavarre, co-owner of the two newspapers in a telegram in which he said he never would have knowingly "assented to become the editor of newspapers owned or controlled by the International Paper and Power company or any special interests."

The telegram from Mr. Hearon was put into the record as exhibition of the Federal Trade commission's investigation newspaper purchases by the International Paper and Power company.

Hearon said in his telegram that he was under the impression "that we were selling the newspapers to you individually." Mr. Hearon also resigned as supervising editor of the Columbia, South Carolina, Record, and Augusta, Georgia, Chronicle, the two other newspapers owned by Lavarre and Harold Hall.

Lavarre testified today before the federal trade commission that he sought financial aid of the International Paper company of his own accord in connection with loans for his purchase of an interest in the four papers.

In answer to a question by R. E. Healy, chief commission counsel, as to how he came to seek aid from the paper company, Lavarre replied: "I suggested it to myself after I had heard about their financing of the Chicago papers." He added that he thought it was "a logical tie up between newspapers and a paper company."

DESCRIBES CONNECTIONS
He said he first negotiated with officials of the International Paper company in November, 1928, including Archibald R. Graustein, president of the International Paper and Power company, of which the paper company is a subsidiary. He added that he began negotiations with Mr. Graustein after a trip through North and South Carolina with a New York newspaper broker in September, 1928, to inquire into the purchase of newspapers.

In November, 1928, he declared, he conferred with Graustein and Joe Searing, vice president in charge of sales of the International Paper company and a Mr. Head, vice president and business manager of that company, before he made a second trip south seeking to buy newspapers.

After talking with Graustein, Lavarre said: "My own reaction was that he was paternally interested in two young men going out to buy newspapers. He had the capital and we had the idea. Mr. Lavarre testified that prior to the negotiations with Graustein he had met Harold Hall, who was then business manager of the New York Telegram and they had agreed on the idea to purchase southern newspapers.

Previous testimony before the commission was that the International Paper company held notes of Hall and Lavarre totaling $855,000 secured by the stock of the four newspapers.

Lavarre testified that in making the second southern trip in November, 1928, he and Hall had an arrangement by which the International Paper company was to pay expenses. He testified that the International Paper company did not pay Hall and himself a salary but they paid it to themselves from funds advanced by the paper company.

Lavarre said that before they took the trip they received a check for $5,000 advanced by the attorneys for the paper company about Nov. 15. He added that he received two other advances, in one a telegraphic deposit of $10,000 to his account in an Augusta, Ga., bank and another $10,000 advance.

He added that he did not sign any receipts for these advances but did acknowledge them in letters and these funds were charged to the open account of Hall and himself with the paper company.

WAUPACA ITCH ISN'T SERIOUS, EXPERT LEARNS

Waupaca's scratching, which resulted in a visit by Dr. W. A. Duxer of the state department of health after city and school authorities could not agree on its cause, is nothing serious and the itching can be eliminated in a week if officials cooperate, Dr. Duxer said Friday. He called it contagious impetigo and itch.

SENATE VOTES ON RELIEF NEXT WEEK

ative during the presidential campaign but voted against his announced position in giving their support to the debenture proposal.

ATTACK BY FESS
"Senator Borah, the one person responsible for the special session," Fess wrote after mentioning that he had opposed the calling of congress, "refused to go along with the president and supported the debenture against which the president had written a letter to the chairman of the committee. Senator Nye, another who had sought the president's promise for a special session, went against the president. Senator Brookhart, who had done such valiant service for the president in the campaign, early broke away from the president and became his most bitter critic on the floor of the senate."

Senator Borah, in a statement on the Fess letter, said he had "for three years been an advocate of a debenture as the most immediate and certain method of relieving the farmer engaged in producing commodities of which we have a surplus from his present distress," had voted Wednesday "according to my long-settled convictions" and would not know how to vote otherwise.

"In the support which I sincerely gave Mr. Hoover I did not get the idea that I was to be deprived ever afterward of voting upon public measures in accordance with my own views," he said. "I am sure that Mr. Hoover did not assume for a moment that by my support I was changing my views upon public questions or surrendering the right to form them. Only a base class of intellectual slaves would entertain or promulgate such an idea."

Senator Nye said that "those who freely resort to the term 'pseudorepublican' would do well to compare their own Republicanism with that which gave birth, vitality and life to the party," and predicted: "Some day Ohio Republicans will learn that North Dakota Republicans are striving to live a little closer to the line laid down by Lincoln than is the case in Ohio, and with that realization will come new vigor for a party that has been growing so feeble that it forgets that people can make and break parties."

BROOKHART'S REPLY
Senator Brookhart declared "no standpoint like Senator Fess can be my example of 'Republicanism,' and asserting that he was 'the first' to ask the president to call the special session, went on:

"But the farm bill I had in mind when I talked with Mr. Hoover last summer and again when I campaigned for him was different from the one we are called upon here to pass."

Senator Fess predicted that the division over the debenture "means ultimately a complete coalition between the Democrats and insurgents, and no consequent arresting of the administration's policies." Referring to the protective tariff as a benefit to manufacturing interests, and contending that debentures were no closer to the bounty idea, Senator Borah observed:

"Mr. Fess hastens with impatient pride to devote all kinds of bounty to manufacturing interests but recoils with pseudo-pride from extending the same principle exactly to the producers. If only the economic schism between the city and the farm could break across party lines, it would be because those who have been recipients of the favor of the government so long are unwilling to extend the same favor to the producers."

$20,000 FIRE DAMAGE IN WISCONSIN VILLAGE

Racine (AP)—Residents of Franksville were viewing the ruins of the biggest fire the village has had in years—a loss of from $20,000 to $25,000, caused by the fire which destroyed three buildings.

The fire started in a garage and quickly spread to a barber shop owned by Charles Callen. Then the flames jumped to the Rammel combined store and apartment house, forcing two families out of the structure. Three hundred dollars in bills, owned by Fred Rammel, went up in smoke when the fire consumed his living quarters. A unit of the Racine fire department aided Franksville volunteers in fighting the fire.

RIVERVIEW DIRECTORS DISCUSS NEW COURSE

Progress of work on the new golf courses of the Riverview country club on the north shore of Lake Michigan was discussed by directors at a meeting Thursday at Conway hotel. Fairways now are being cut and brush cleaned up, and will be seeded in the fall. The course will be ready for play late in 1930, it is expected. Other business transacted was of a routine nature.

B. AND L. APPROVES $72,000 IN LOANS

Loans amounting to $72,000 were approved by directors of Appleton Building and Loan association at their May meeting Thursday. The board also accepted the invitation of D. P. Steinberg to hold its next meeting at his cottage on Lake Winnebago. J. L. Jaquet is president of the loan association and George H. Beckley is secretary.

GIANT AIRSHIP IS PLANNED ON PACIFIC COAST

Will Be Larger Than Graf if U. S. Mail Contracts Are Granted

New York (AP)—Given the approval of congress at its next session, work will begin in California on a hangar for the building of a giant commercial airship embodying helicopter features for mail and passenger service to Hawaii and later to the Orient.

Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goetz-Zeppelin company of Akron, O., told in detail today plans he laid before President Hoover in Washington yesterday.

The company is not asking government subsidy such as was granted in England for building the R-100 and the R-101, but it does want the guaranteed income of mail contracts before entering upon a project that entails an estimated outlay of $10,000,000.

If these contracts are forthcoming the program is as follows: A hangar will be built in southern California or in one of two places now under consideration in the San Francisco bay district, similar to the one now under construction at Akron in the building of two airships for the navy. Each one twice as big as the dirigible Los Angeles and half again as big as the Graf Zeppelin.

In the Akron shops construction of parts for the first navy ship will be duplicated and one set shipped to California for assembly in the proposed hangar there. The commercial ship will be identical with the navy ships except that its interior accommodations and fittings will be adapted to cargo and passenger needs.

The navy ships and the proposed commercial ship will have radical departures from accepted practice in design, in that the engines, of which there will be eight instead of five as in the Los Angeles and the Graf, will be housed inside the frame rather than hung in "eggs" from the hull, and the propellers will be on swivels.

USE NEW DEVICE
This swivel arrangement will permit the propellers to be so turned as to drive the ship straight up or pull it straight down, by use of the helicopter principle which the navy had been engaging the interest of the heavier than air engineers.

The commercial ship will carry a crew of about 50, and will have accommodations for about 100 passengers, and cargo room for 10 tons of mail. It will have a speed of 90 miles.

The airship will have none of the protruberances of the present dirigibles, everything but the front of the control cabin being within the bag. The sterns will be in two lines with outside windows and there will be a glassed in promenade or sun deck.

Realizing from long dirigible flights of the past that passengers need more space than has been possible so far, there are even plans for a gymnasium on board where games and physical training will be a part of the routine.

As helium gas is to be used, instead of hydrogen, smoking will be permitted and this is expected to give the American liner a popularity advantage of foreign ships.

Commander J. C. Hunsacker said that with congressional approval the project of the first commercial ship would be in service by 1931 and that if its business justified a second ship would be begun at once.

JOHNS TALKS TO WAUPUN KIWANIS

International Trustee Speaks on Presentation Program

J. L. Johns, Appleton, international trustee of Kiwanis, was one of the speakers on the chapter presentation program for the winter presentation program at the Kiwanis convention at Thursday evening. Nine Appleton Kiwanians were among the 200 or more members of clubs in the state who attended the dinner and dance in connection with the presentation.

The principal speaker on the evening's program was the Rev. LeRoy Dakin, president of the Milwaukee Kiwanis club and pastor of the first Baptist church in that city. Presentation of the new charter was made by Harrison Wood, Racine, governor of the Upper Michigan-Wisconsin branch of Kiwanis.

RALLY SHOOTS COTTON ABOVE THURSDAY PRICES

New York (AP)—A rally from an early decline today carried cotton prices up to 18.62 for July and 18.82 for December or about 7 to 10 points above yesterday's closing quotations. A little more trade buying was reported than recently. There was considerable covering also, but the demand tapered off later in the morning and the market was quiet at midday with prices showing reactions of a few points under realizing or liquidation. The forecast for showers in parts of the central and western belts was considered favorable, but some traders thought they saw indications for showers in west Texas where additional moisture is believed to be needed.

JURY BRIBE CHARGE PUSHED IN SOUTH

Contempt Proceedings Begun Against Two in Tennessee Case

Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—The state, twice defeated by "hung" juries in its efforts to convict Walter Liggett of slaying of Turney Cunningham, today turned its attention toward hearings of contempt proceedings against two men charged with conspiracy to "hang" the second jury.

B. P. Osburn, one of the jurors, was arrested Wednesday on a charge of accepting a bribe from Tainey Creswell, who admitted Liggett offered him $200 to "fix" Osburn.

Attorney General Rickard M. Atkinson plans to present what the terms "additional evidence" in the case obtained in a statement by Ben Osburn, the juror's son. The statement said young Osburn's father told him he had been summoned to serve on the Liggett jury "but he didn't believe there was enough money in it," later he said his mother told him Creswell had been to see Osburn and that he was going to get more money out of the jury duty.

When he attended a session of the court, the youth said, Creswell advised him not to sit near Liggett, or be seen with him, "as he was known to General Atkinson and that some one might suspect something."

Cunningham, a hotel manager, was shot to death by Liggett, a young grain dealer, last fall in the rear yard of the former's home. Liggett's counsel claimed self-defense. Liggett admitted an affair of several years standing with Mrs. Cunningham.

Liggett was remanded to jail after the arrest of Osburn and Creswell by Judge Chester K. Hart, presiding over Davidson-co court, who revoked his bond of $25,000.

Superior (AP)—Despondency over ill health is believed to have led William Anderson, 58, Superior, to take his life by hanging in his garage late Thursday.

La Crosse (AP)—George Tearney was arrested and bound over to U. S. District court under $1,000 bond, after federal and state prohibition officers found a large still and 600 gallons of mash in a vacant house here Thursday. The house appeared to be inhabited, having curtains and shades.

Superior (AP)—As a part of an economy program, according to Chief Art Buchanan, nine policemen were discharged Thursday. Nine more are expected to be dropped in the next few days, the fire and police commissioners announced. Several of the officers have been on the force a number of years.

Superior (AP)—Found guilty by a jury of taking $18 from a person here, Fred Nelson, 29, of this city, was sentenced to be dropped in the state prison at Waupun Thursday afternoon.

LIFT CENSORSHIP AT SINCLAIR JAIL

Official Explains Why It Was Necessary to Bar Newspaper Reporters

Washington (AP)—The order barring newspaper men from the district jail during the confinement there of Henry F. Sinclair was lifted today by George S. Wilson, director of the District of Columbia Board of Welfare.

Mr. Wilson, who promulgated the order, said that Major William L. Peak, Warden of the jail had been authorized "in his discretion to receive representatives of the press and to allow them to have all legitimate news facts."

His statement declared "there was never any intention of interfering with the legitimate prerogatives of the press" but that "it had become necessary temporarily to deny admission of the public to the jail because the continued presence of a considerable number of people had interfered seriously with the operation of the institution."

Newspaper men were refused admittance to the jail the second day after Sinclair was locked up and in addition jail attaches were ordered not to tell the press anything about what was going on inside.

The first official word of Sinclair's activities in the jail since the gag rule was made came today from Wilson himself.

He said that the jail's radio was broken and that Sinclair would not be able to listen to the broadcasting today of the Peckness, the Maryland racing classic. The oil man is the owner of the Rancocas stable, which has entered Leucite in the race.

ALLOW WOMEN TO SPEAK IN PUBLIC

Baptist Convention Chief Rules They May, Despite Editor's Protest

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—The centuries-old religious dispute concerning woman's right to speak in public bobbed up yesterday at the opening session of the Southern Baptist convention but was settled quickly by citation of a precedent that women are "brethren" and enjoy the same privileges as men.

Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas, Tex., who was elected president for his third term, shunted the issue to a committee after Dr. J. W. Porter of Lexington, Ky., editor of the American Baptist, introduced a memorial from the General Association of Kentucky Baptists, protesting on scriptural grounds against the convention hearing Mrs. W. J. Cox of Memphis, president of the Women's Missionary union. She has been asked to speak Saturday.

"We go right against the scriptures," said a spokesman of the convention, "in allowing a woman to speak before this convention." Dr. Porter said, "We break a precedent of 2,000 years."

Dr. Truett then quoted a ruling which said the word "brethren" in the organization's constitution included both "brethren and sisters" and that "women are members of the convention with all rights and privileges of membership."

The convention was to consider today a resolution of the Texas missions board. Considerable interest has been aroused among delegates by the scheduled address of Rev. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth, Tex., before the Ku Klux Klan on "The Menaces of Rome." Rev. Norris is here attending the convention. Klan officials have experienced difficulty in obtaining a permit for the city park for the address. Members of the park commission have opposed the address and gathering.

ONE KILLED, THIRTY ARE GASED IN EXPLOSION

Syracuse, N. Y. (AP)—One man was killed and 30 others were gassed, two of whom were not expected to live, when a building was wrecked and the entire Solvay district threatened by the explosion of a 9,000-gallon tank of chlorine gas in the chemical and dye plant of the Solvay Process company today.

The most seriously affected were rescued from a cloud of the poisonous vapor by fellow workers. They were James Carlisle, 35, and Charles Ney, 29.

The cause of the explosion was unknown. It occurred while the dirigible Los Angeles was drifting over the town, a fact which, perhaps, saved the lives of some workers as they rushed into the open air to watch it.

The fact the giant dirigible was cruising overhead added to the excitement in the district. Many thought the town was being subjected to some sort of aerial attack and it was considerable time before they could be reassured.

DEMANDS PROBE OF REAL-ESTATE FIRMS

Brookhart Asks Investigation of Transactions at Washington

Washington (AP)—Investigation of real estate and finance corporations of the District of Columbia alleged to have misrepresented bonds sold on apartment houses in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Buffalo and Washington was asked in a resolution today by Senator Brookhart, (Rep., Iowa).

Declaring that "millions of dollars of real estate mortgage notes and bond have been sold throughout the United States through alluring advertisements in magazines and newspapers," the resolution called attention to charges that the commonwealth finance corporation of New York had been "defrauded of more than $5,000,000 of its assets by reason of fraudulent misrepresentations as to real estate values in the District of Columbia."

The resolution also alleged that some financial operators of the district "particularly the F. H. Smith company and its subsidiaries" had been debauched from selling bonds in Pennsylvania and Ohio because of irregular practices.

The investigation would determine the facts concerning sales of mortgage bonds, first and refunding mortgage bonds and general mortgage bonds.

BODY OF AGED WOMAN IS FOUND NEAR SWAMP

Oconto, Wis. (AP)—The body of Mrs. Anna Katz, 76, of Maple Valley, was found near the Gillett swamp late yesterday. The woman had been missing from her home since Monday. Death, according to coroner's verdict, was due to exposure.

When first missed on Monday, the woman's son, Emil, who lived with her, thought that she had gone to visit other of her children and showed little concern over her absence.

However, when she remained away for two days without sending any word, he enlisted aid and a search was begun. It was learned that school children had seen her walking toward the swamp, late Monday. She was found 3 1/2 miles from her home.

DELAY ACTION AGAINST AGED DRY LAW SUSPECT

Rice Lake (AP)—The strong arm of the law will sometimes relax when the case in point involves 92-year-old moonshiners. A few days ago John Mallo, 83, was arrested for violation of the liquor laws. His trial is being held up, however, to give him a chance to raise sufficient money to pay him fine, in case he pleads guilty. Sheriff Zeon L. Douglas seized 20 quarts of wine in the raid on Mallo's home.

MY, WHAT A DRUNK!
Cleveland—Mrs. Mary Podpadee was in court recently suing for a divorce from her husband Joseph. "Does your husband drink?" Judge Ruhl asked her. "Yes," she replied. "For the past three years." "Does he ever get intoxicated?" the judge asked. "Once," Mrs. Podpadee retorted. "Oh, you mean that he is still intoxicated?" the judge queried. Mrs. Podpadee replied affirmatively and the judge granted the divorce. The Podpadees had been married 30 years.

At Trinity English Lutheran church the Loyal Order of Moose and the women of Mooseheart will be guests. The Rev. F. L. Schreckenberg will speak on Mary, the Model for All Mothers and Misses Dorothy Warner and Leona Tesch will sing a duet, "My Mother's Bible." Special Mother's Day sermons will be preached at Memorial Presbyterian, German Methodist Episcopal, Emanuel Evangelical and First English Lutheran churches.

GUARDSMEN WILL MANEUVER 2 DAYS DURING ENCAMPMENT

Members of Co. D Will Spend 15 Days at Camp Williams

Members of the 127th Infantry of the Wisconsin National Guard will engage in battle maneuvers against the 128th Infantry this summer at Sparta if plans now being worked out for the annual national guard encampment are carried to completion. Co. D, Appleton guard company, is a part of the 127th regiment and will be in camp this year from July 27 to Aug. 10.

Last year the maneuvers featured two battalions of the 127th Infantry attacking one battalion on defense position and was preceded by an entrucking movement in which the guardsmen and all equipment were transferred from Camp Douglas to the Camp McCoy reservation in trucks.

This year the 127th regiment will move to Camp McCoy by rail, leaving Camp Williams on the morning of Aug. 7. Arriving at Camp McCoy, the regiment will select a defensive position on the reservation and provide for its security the night of Aug. 7 and 8. On the morning of Aug. 8, the 128th regiment will entrain for Sparta and on arrival will attack the 127th Infantry in its defensive position. When the "battle" is over and criticisms have been made of the various units, the 127th regiment will entrain for the return trip to Camp Williams. The 128th regiment then will find and prepare a new position to be held during the night and return to Camp Williams on Aug. 9.

Governor's day this year will be observed the first Sunday the guards are in camp July 28, according to orders. Formerly the second Sunday was observed as governor's day.

Drill periods at camp again will be held during the morning, beginning at 7 o'clock with physical training. The usual program of tactical exercises for gun squads and sections will be reviewed, with instruction in machine firing and combat fire problems. There also will be instruction in chemical warfare and offensive and defensive training against low flying airplanes.

Air craft will be present at the camp this year to enable units to get actual training in going into action against the planes. The 32nd tank company also will be in camp with the Infantry and will be trained in tactical exercises, firing, and riding over obstructions.

WILL SELL TWO LOTS TO SATISFY MORTGAGE

Two lots in the Fifth ward, Appleton, will be sold at public auction Saturday, July 6, by Sheriff Fred W. Giese to satisfy a mortgage foreclosure judgment granted May 1, 1928. The property is owned by Frank Stirren, et al, and the mortgage is held by the First Trust company of Appleton.

Sargon Gave Her Glorious Health

All Her Friends Are Telling Her how Much Better She is Looking, She Declares

"Sargon has brought me back to glorious health and I am feeling better than I have in fifteen years. My trouble started years ago with stomach trouble and gastric indigestion. I suffered misery from one meal to another. Everything I ate would sour and bring on a bloated feeling that would pain me clear up around my heart. Hot acids would rise up in my throat and burn like fire. I kept getting worse and nothing seemed to help me except soda, which would only relieve me a short time. I was considerably overweight in this bloated condition and was always having headaches and dizzy spells. My back hurt me day and night and I would tire out easy.

"The Sargon treatment has made me like a different woman. I don't have a sign of indigestion or bloating. My stomach is in fine condition and I feel much stronger in every way since that awful backache left me. Sargon has my weight to about normal for which I am truly thankful. I have a comfortable feeling of good health all over and all my friends are talking about how much better I look.
"Sargon Soft Mass Pills have my system in good working order and I no longer have headaches or dizzy spells. I am much more active and feel just fine all the time."
The above statement was made recently by Mrs. C. Blazek, highly esteemed resident of 398 1/2 Fourth Ave., Milwaukee.
Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Volgt's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Brauer.

LOCAL FIREMEN MAY ATTEND SHORT COURSE

It has not yet been definitely determined whether any Appleton firemen will attend the short course for firemen at the University of Wisconsin in Madison on June 25, 26, 27 and 28, according to Fire Chief George P. McGowan. Some matters which will be studied by firemen there will be modern equipment, fighting fire with chemicals, modern building construction, fire hazards, and industrial fire fighting. Experts will speak on building construction, fire prevention, control and extinguishment. There also will be practical drills and demonstrations.

FRUIT GROWERS TO MEET NEXT MONTH

Three-day Session Will Be Held at Hotel in Madison June 7, 8, and 9

Wisconsin fruit flower and vegetable growers are planning a number of very interesting meetings during the next few months, announces R. H. Rahmlow, University of Wisconsin. The first event of importance in which local people will be much interested is the State Garden and Flower Show to be given under auspices of the State Garden Club Federation at the Lorraine Hotel, Madison, June 7, 8, and 9.

The show will be open Friday evening and continue Saturday and Sunday, closing Sunday night. About 15 garden clubs in different sections of the state will take part in this event which is the first all state garden and flower show to be held in Wisconsin.

At least 10 garden clubs in different cities have already appointed committees who are working on the garden club projects which consist of window boxes, shadow boxes, luncheon tables, miniature gardens and little gardens. Prizes will be given for the best design and arrangement.

The little gardens will be four by eight feet long built from real plants. Shrubs, blooming flowers, soil and rock on the ball room floor of the Lorraine Hotel. Probably four rooms will be used for the flower show, the ballroom, two banquet rooms, mezzanine floor and lobby.

Several commercial concerns have already agreed to put on large garden exhibits.

Another event of importance is the Door County Cherry Festival which will be held in Door County from May 23 to May 26. The Door County Chamber of Commerce is planning an elaborate program for the event. A piece of cherry pie will be served free to all visitors.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR WATER LAST MONTH

Appleton People Consume 58,530,000 Gallons of City Water

Appleton people consumed 58,530,000 gallons of water during the past month as compared to 54,740,000 gallons during the same month a year ago, according to A. J. Hall, superintendent of the city pumping station and filtration plant.

During the past month 1,942,000 gallons of water were used to wash filters while in the same month a year ago 1,758,000 gallons of wash water were used. In April of this year the wash water used represented 3.1 per cent of the total amount pumped while in April, 1928, it represented 3.2 per cent of the total pumpage.

The Diesel engines pumped 56,220,000 gallons. Approximately 2,310,000 gallons were pumped with the electric auxiliary units this April while last year they pumped 2,450,000 gallons.

WINNEBAGO-CO RURAL

GRADS GO TO MADISON

Following the example set last year when Outagamie-co rural school graduates were taken in a body to the state capitol at Madison for commencement exercises, the school authorities of Winnebago-co. have planned a similar trip for their rural school graduates this year. Outagamie-co. students will make the trip again via special train to Madison on June 10 and the Winnebago-co. exercises will be held one week earlier.

Similar to arrangements last year, parents and teachers will be allowed to accompany the graduates on the special train to Madison. Reduced rates will be offered so that the trip will not be expensive. A complete program for the commencement exercises at Madison is being prepared by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, who devised the novel graduation exercises.

Tentative arrangements call for a commencement address by Governor Walter P. Kohler.

Last year more than 1,000 students, parents and teachers made the trip and it is expected that a similar number will make the trip again this year.

PEPSIN KILLS THE CURSE

Did you ever hear a raucous voice at a street carnival or a county fair bawling out: "Round and 'round and 'round she goes and where she stops nobody knows?" He is selling chances on a wheel of fortune. He might use the same words better to explain the marvelous workings of our prohibition amendment. For instance:

The people of California have many millions invested in vineyards employing tens of thousands in the seasonal work of gathering grapes. Drug stores in California sell wine, the bottles bearing prominently upon their labels the important fact that the contents contain "twenty per cent alcohol." It is claimed that there is some pepsin put into this wine which raises it above the standard of the "devilish stuff" sold in olden days and dignifies it with the sweet appellation of "tonic." Its sale makes a better demand for the California grape. No one pretends to buy it because it is a tonic although there are many smiling jokes over the word, but the words "twenty per cent alcohol" sell it like hot cakes.

Now if wine with twenty per cent alcohol and a bit of pepsin comes under the name of tonic, and therefore legal, what is to prevent the people of Wisconsin putting a few sprinkles of salt in four per cent beer and calling it by the same name? There is much in a name, poets to the contrary notwithstanding. Perhaps it would make it easier to call it salt tonic and forget that fearsome word beer. These are merely thoughts that may occur to the man on the street though they are probably but the recrudescence of ignorance. Never before did a bit of pepsin, enough probably for a stick of gum, assume such inspiring majesty. California knows her groceries and her grapes.

Last year the medical profession in the United States solemnly certified that over thirteen million people were in need of whisky, of course not as a beverage, perish the very thought, but as a medicine, a kind of tonic though without pepsin. The going fee for this prescription is three dollars, and when the sick person shambles into the drug store with dull eye and haggard face to get his "medicine" he finds that a pint of whisky used to sell for a dollar but a pint of medicine costs three. He may take this pint of medicine and become intoxicated by it but in fact he isn't drunk, only reeling with too much medicine. Too bad that our legal profession hasn't inaugurated another plea in defense of those charged with intoxication, a dignified plea that looks with horror upon the charge of drunkenness when the accused needs sympathy because of his sickly state. Let us take our intoxicated persons to the hospital where they belong and nurse them instead of sending them to jail with its attendant shame and disgrace. There ought to be some sort of consistency about the matter.

Florida is a state that votes dry, very dry. It trembled all over with indignation at the thought of Al Smith and his attack upon the eighteenth amendment. There are no speak-easies, strictly so-called, in Florida. There are loudspeakers, for they make no pretense of preventing the common sale of all forms of intoxicants in public places. The situation, they tell you, is a little different than in other states, because while they do not believe in violation of the eighteenth amendment they have to permit it else the tens of thousands of tourists will move on to Bermuda or go over to Sloppy Joe's Place in Havana. Certainly it is legitimate to save their business. What else can the poor girl do?

These are but a few of the glaring and glooming hypercrites that have grown up like mushrooms after a rain, all over the country. They are making a farce of prohibition and slowly but surely tending to convince the public mind that it cannot be made to work.

HOUSE AND SENATE

The house of representatives at Washington, so far in this session, has made a good impression, comporting itself with dignity and disposing of its affairs in a businesslike way. So much cannot be said for the senate. The "greatest deliberative body in the world" once more leads the public to question that proud title. The senate has become merely the most argumentative body in the world. The following criticism, made by the New York Times, is supported by the record:

It wastes time and energy. It so ties itself up in the coils of anticipated procedure that it cannot do business. Its committees run off for days on false scents, like the one which the judiciary committee has been foolishly and mainly following in the case of Secretary Mellon.

The senate is also at the mercy of its most unruly and unreasonable member. If he wants to speak for three days, there is no way of stopping him. Nor will the country fail to note that various master minds, or master mischief-makers, in the senate are spending their days and nights devising little plots to oppose and thwart the president of the United States.

The senate as a business institution grows doddering. As a political institution its main purpose in life seems to be to assert its own supremacy over the executive department.

This is unfortunate for the public weal and unfortunate for the senate's reputation. It has had periods of true power and glory, based on ability and service, where the house seemed in comparison a futile mob. But pre-eminence is now passing to the house.

REGULATING RADIO

The radio commission is making hay while the sun shines. In other words, it is taking advantage of its further lease on life to do all that it can to clean up chaos and controversy before politics has a chance to intervene. Within recent months station after station has been warned of violations of the code while others have had their licenses suspended or revoked. The commission is making a special drive on those stations which do not keep to their wave length and which are the cause of frequent and annoying heterodyning.

For the first time the blame for interference has been placed where it belongs, on the broadcaster. We think the commission is making commendable progress and that radio reception is showing some improvement. The only way that broadcasting in the United States can be made entirely satisfactory and to serve the greatest good to the greatest number is to put it under intelligent and strict federal regulation, which will play no favorites to the big stations and will protect the public as far as the law permits against monopoly of the air by syndicates. The worst results will be obtained if we permit regulation to be under the thumb and dictation of politicians.

MAKING CHESS HARDER

Devotees of the game of chess will be highly interested in Jose Capablanca's recently-presented suggestion for widening the scope of the game.

Capablanca, who has claimed for years that chess needs revision because the experts have solved all its possible combinations, has suggested and demonstrated some changes. He has enlarged the size of the board, so that it contains 100 squares instead of 64. Each side gets four new pieces; two new pawns, and two composite pieces, one of which combines the powers of the rook and the knight, while the other combines the powers of the bishop and the knight.

Chess lovers will doubtless be eager to see how this new game works out. For the ordinary man chess still contains unnumbered riddles. It may be, however, that the masters' tournaments will contain fewer monotonous draws if Capablanca's suggestions are adopted.

FOLLY IN THE AIR

Early reports of the airplane accident at San Diego, Calif., where six people lost their lives when an army airplane collided with a big passenger plane, indicate that aviation occasionally has a character not unlike the gentleman who rocks the boat on the water.

If the early reports are correct, the accident occurred after an army flyer, diving close to the passenger plane in an effort to show his skill and give the passengers a thrill, misjudged his distance and crashed into it.

Army flyers, of course, are trained to go through risky maneuvers. It is all part of the day's work to them. But there is precious little excuse for an affair like this at San Diego. If a flyer wants to show off his stunts, let him do it by himself.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK

New York—The Guild of Former Pipe Organ Pumpers, heretofore a more or less local organization, is about to expand in a big way. Mr. Ches. Shafer, Grand Diapason, announces in a communication sent by courier that he intends soon to install the second Loft, or basso branch, in Chicago, preliminary to the mid-summer welfare campaign, having as its purpose a renaissance of the old-fashioned steam callopie.

"Electric callopies," says Diapason Shafer, "are proving a menace to those sympathetic old boilers so dear to our childhood, those instruments under which you built a fire before you got any music. Not only that, our aim includes restoration of the old-time pronunciation—callopie instead of the new-fangled callopie."

HELP THE IRON-DEER

The Guild of Former Pipe Organ Pumpers met for the first time last winter and outlined its first great endeavor—the preservation of ferro-fauna.

Ferro-fauna—iron statues of jungle and woodland creatures that used to grace America's lawns—began to wane in popularity at the birth of the twentieth century. Investigation discloses, says Mr. Shafer, that none are made today, and that few old masterpieces are extant.

There is not a single piece over of the cheaper zinc variety in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, although the guild feels that cast-iron sculpture had a definite period in American culture. The guild's broad character does not permit its taking any action, but the Diapason hopes a specially-cast statue eventually will be erected in the American church that first had a pipe-organ, providing they can find the church.

"One more statue," says Mr. Shafer, "won't do anybody any harm."

EX-ORGAN PUMPERS

John Tracy Winterich, editor of the American Legion Monthly, originated the callopie scheme. He is only one of the prominent ex-pumpers now living in New York. Others are Frank Waterman, the pen man, who is organizing an Australian Loft by mail; Percy Hammon, who used to pump in Cadiz, Ohio, and Archer Gibson, private organist to the Schwabs and Rockefellers, and Chief Tremolo of the guild. The most distinguished member, perhaps, was the late Ambassador Myron T. Herrick.

The Chicago Loft, Diapason Shafer reports, is being formed by a triumvirate, consisting of Julius Eisenberg, Benjamin Franklin Afflick and George W. Dulany, Jr. Mr. Afflick is high in the councils of the Benjamin Franklin society, composed of persons named for the noted Philadelphia. Mr. Dulany is organizer of the Society for the Prevention of Calling Sleeping Car Porters George.

Mr. Shafer closes his communication with the announcement that:

"The dove-releasing committee and the clasped-hands memorial board, the two most active branches of the guild, are going ahead with plans to release from the top of some tower, probably the Woolworth building, a pair of cast-iron pigeons which Diapason Shafer possesses."

"Low visibility since the guild's meeting has caused postponement of the ceremony, which will inaugurate the ferro-fauna steam-callopie and kindred campaigns."

Today's Anniversary

ALLEN AT TICONDEROGA

How the lack of rapid means of communications helped the American colonists in their struggle for freedom is graphically illustrated by the Revolutionary War episode of which today is the anniversary—the capture of Ticonderoga by Ethan Allen on May 10, 1775.

Isolated, but important, storehouse of British supplies surrendered to the Americans before the garison stationed there knew that a war was in progress, although the battle of Lexington had been fought more than three weeks before.

The strength of Allen's attack lay in the fact that it was such a complete surprise, for his "army" consisted of less than 100 "Green Mountain boys." Benedict Arnold, who later was to become a traitor, played a valiant part under Allen in the attack.

The next day Allen sent a note to the governor of Connecticut, telling him in this whimsical fashion of the prisoners he had taken: "I make you a present of a major, a captain and two lieutenants in the regular establishment of George the Third. I hope they may serve as ransom for some of our friends at Boston."

EXERCISE TO REDUCE BLOOD PRESSURE

This is the fourth and positively the last chapter in a little story I have been trying to tell folks who have blood pressure or a distinct desire to avoid having it. Really a story should be told in one installment, but much experience has taught me that condensation is fatal if the purpose is to get the idea over to the reader. If condensation were practiced in the printing of news, maybe we'd have more room here for printing health stuff. At that, it would be exceedingly interesting to know how readers feel about this. As a reader would you prefer to see a little more space devoted to a department such as this — or maybe less? If more, would you like to see more queries answered in this column, or longer daily articles? It is difficult to select just the right questions to answer here, when there is room to answer only three or four a day and there are perhaps three or four hundred queries to be answered in one way or another. In short, it would be interesting to learn whether the paper devotes as much space to the subject of health as readers think this subject deserves.

These four talks about high blood pressure were inspired by a scientific contribution recently published by Dr. Israel Rappaport in one of the medical journals. I shall now quote from Dr. Rappaport's highly instructive article:

"In relating my own clinical experiences I can be brief. For nearly two years I have been observing a number of hypertensive patients and have been struck with the fact that they were all poor breathers. They showed what I came to call 'the low breathing habit.' The features of this phenomenon are a markedly reduced respiratory rate, pulmonary expansion far below the average, and diaphragmatic excursions of a very restricted type, with out any evidence of pulmonary disease to account for it. These patients gave the impression of having established themselves at a pulmonary capacity — probably the mean of their already reduced respiratory need — so that their respiratory functions could take place within a narrow range of respiratory excursions, and even at this point they need only a reduced number of respiratory cycles. I found, however, that it was possible to correct this anomaly by a concentrated effort at deep breathing exercise carried out repeatedly, daily, over a period of several months. Considerable increase of spontaneous pulmonary expansion could be obtained in some cases after several weeks of conscientious breathing exercises. Reductions of blood pressure levels — an average of 30 per cent of the pathologic surplus — were thus obtained and maintained, in some cases for nearly two years. In some cases it was necessary to interrupt the patient's life work temporarily for the purpose of carrying out a successful regimen."

Many times I have ridiculed the idea of "deep breathing exercise" on physiological grounds, and I still do consider such exercise ridiculous if one imagines one can get any more oxygen into the blood by such means. But I think this suggestion of Dr. Rappaport is quite as sound as is the idea of exercise for the prevention and relief of distension of the veins of the legs when the veins are enlarged, this maneuver recommended by Dr. Rappaport — a bleeding of a pint or so of blood into the patient's lesser circulation. The patient derives the benefit of the relief of pressure in the general circulation yet loses none of his blood.

It is exceedingly difficult to carry out any such breathing exercise; it demands a great deal of perseverance on the part of the patient to do it regularly and faithfully. Dr. Rappaport gives no detailed directions for the exercise in this scientific paper.

CRUELTY REFINED

Please give your view of the grape cure for cancer and tumor as given in Physical Culture. Would a person come to any harm trying a diet of this kind by himself? (P. M., P.)

Answer — If the person happened to have cancer, or even a tumor, it would be the height of folly to waste any time on any kind of diet. Such monkeying with the diet might do no harm to a person who has nothing much the matter. It is a queer kind of liberty that permits the mails to be used for the dissemination of such cruel misinformation as you cite.

Tumors

Bothered now about five years with tumors, about 10 small soft ones all over my body. They are painless but unsightly. Would skunk oil help any? (M. M.)

Answer — A hunchback received a good dose of skunk essence which straightened him up, all right. But I don't know what kind of tumors yours are.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Goldbricked

Two years ago I took some pills called Radium Tablets. They were supposed to build you up. I read about a girl that died of radium poisoning. (E. W.)

Answer — Rest assured the nostrum contained no radium. If you purchased an automobile for $69.50 you wouldn't worry much about the gold or silver in it.

Diphtheria Prevention

Have you any printed matter on the contagious diseases, particularly diphtheria? Would like to know whether it can be carried from child to child or whether the child must come in direct contact with the disease. (E. P.)

Answer — I have no printed matter. Possibly your local health department, or the state or provincial health department, has a free pamphlet. Diphtheria may be carried by a third person who has not the disease and is not coming down with it, but who harbors some focus in nose or throat whence come diphtheria germs. Usually such a "carrier" is an individual who has had diphtheria, when the primary illness was so recognized or not. The safest and wisest course, I believe, is to give every child, at the age of 2 years, and surely before the child enters school, the benefit of the Schick test, and if the child proves susceptible to diphtheria, then the toxin-antitoxin immunization. After the toxin-antitoxin has had time to take effect (it requires several weeks) you need not worry about diphtheria any more, so far as that child is concerned.

Adventures In The Library

By Arnold Mulder

LUDWIG LEWISOHN'S MIDDLE AGE
I picked up Ludwig Lewisoohn's "Mid-Channel" eagerly expecting it to be as fascinating as his "Upstream" that created something of a sensation a few years ago. You remember it was published about the same time as Edward Bok's "Americanization of Edward Bok" and it was a perfect antidote to that somewhat ridiculously too eulogistic picture of the experiences of an immigrant in America. Lewisoohn's picture was critical where Bok's was almost pure rhapsody.

That book carried the author well into manhood and through the World War. The notion of "Mid-Channel" was to take up the story where "Upstream" left off and carry the author through middle age.

The trouble is that where "Upstream" was largely narrative "Mid-Channel" is largely preachment. Since he wrote the earlier book Lewisoohn, fine artist in words though he is, seems to have been bitten by the messianic delusion bug and he now feels it incumbent on himself to save the world. "Messianic delusion" is perhaps the wrong term because Lewisoohn specifically rejects the Christian philosophy in this book and argues that the philosophy of the Jew is the only thing that can save the world. But the impulse back of it is the same as the one that animated the messianic writers.

The book is interesting in spite of the author's preoccupation with the Jewish question and it is well written as a matter of course. It is only when it is compared with "Upstream" as it naturally must be, that it suffers.

There is one other possible objection. During the early chapters Lewisoohn tells the story of his getting rid of his first wife and meeting Thelma with whom he seems to be living now. He is conveniently vague about it and he does not say whether he actually obtained a divorce or not. Instead of giving his readers a few specific facts he expends all his art and all his energy on trying to create an atmosphere of sympathy for himself. The American divorce laws are barbarous, the American attitude toward marriage and divorce is unspeakable, a sensitive person is made to suffer cruelly, and so on.

All of which may be true but it seems to me Lewisoohn protests too much. At least on his many pages about this subject had the effect of stirring me into a skeptical attitude. I felt that I would like to hear the woman's side of the case.

Was she as unspeakable as Lewisoohn suggests? Was not perhaps Lewisoohn a pretty hard customer to live with? Lewisoohn has the advantage of being a writer. He has the ear of the public and he can dress up his case as he sees fit.

This domestic drama seems to have occupied the thought of Lewisoohn for years. Several of his novels are colored with it. "Don Juan," "The Island Within" and "Roman Summer" touch directly or indirectly on the subject. Lewisoohn seems determined to justify his course in the eyes of men. To my notion he has greatly overdone it.

There is very little narrative in "Mid-Channel." Aside from the half-told story of his domestic troubles, there are some facts about the books he has written the past few years, some about his life in Europe with Thelma, and for the rest preachments about American civilization, about the different points of view of Jew and Gentile, about the superiority of the former, and so on.

The book is by no means negligible. Lewisoohn is worth reading and he is almost never merely journalistic. But to one who admired "Upstream" this second installment of his life is rather disappointing.

A Missouri girl has made a success of manufacturing stylish shoes in Paris. That's nothing — for years people have been making a success of manufacturing Paris shoes right here in America.

A 33-carat diamond was found in Africa the other day. Wonder who will get it — Peggy Joyce or Texas Guinan?

The mayor of one Illinois town works for 50 cents a year. Most mayors we have known were worth twice that much.

BARBS

The Chicago Tribune has discovered that the jail population in Kansas has increased during prohibition. It must have been interesting news for Chicagoans to learn that there's a state so old-fashioned that it puts offenders in jail.

President Hoover complains that White House correspondents do not ask enough questions. The president must be seeking a little more publicity.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY BOBBIN COONS

Hollywood — Adolphe Menjou is making his first talkie, and he has a leading lady whose broad A is as natural as her love for dogs.

She is Fay Compton, the Barrie heroine, and the English accent which will be heard from her lips in "The Concert" comes direct from the authentic training school of English accents — England, where she is a member of a theatrical family that is to Britain what the Barrymores are to the United States.

How Miss Compton became the "Barrie heroine" is interesting. She first met Sir James, when she was five, at a children's tea party in Russell Square. All she remembers of the meeting is the way he patted her head kindly, and it was years before she met him again. A grown young lady then, she was starring in "The Professor's Love Story" in London and he attended a rehearsal of his play.

"You can't forget him, once you've met him," she broadens her delightful, "with his great big stick and his bowler hat — you call it a derby, don't you? It's difficult to tell you very much about Sir James, even though we were practically next door neighbors in London, because he is so shy, so retiring."

"It has been a year and a half since I saw him last, but I don't believe he will write any more plays. I asked him then to do one for me, but he declined."

A PLAY OF HER OWN

After Barrie saw Miss Compton in "The Professor's Love Story" she was selected to star in other plays of his, among them "Quality Street," "The Little Minister" and "Peter Pan." And after she had been unfortunately cast in several poor productions, Barrie told her he "would have to write a play all her own." He did, and "Mary Rose" was greeted strikingly in England.

Miss Compton has starred in British silent movies, in several New York stage productions, including musical comedy; she sings and has had radio experience. What more natural, therefore, than that she should be drafted for talkies when she came to California recently for a test before returning to England?

LOVER OF DOGS

A dog on the Paramount lot, or anywhere for that matter, and any kind of dog, can always be sure of affectionate greeting from Fay Compton if she sees it. She has quite a few in her own kennels: two police dogs, one English sheep dog, two chows, one Airedale, a spaniel, a pug (named Hamlet, because when it was presented her she was playing Ophelia to John Barrymore's Hamlet in the London production), and a Skye terrier.

Dairy farming has invaded one of the south's leading cotton strongholds, eastern Texas.

Whatever he wants he finds here — the same day usually — the next day positively.

When a new fashion comes out it instantly comes in. The same split second that youth inquires about a style, our boilers are fired to deliver it.

Young men come to us FOR and WITH ideas. Their suggestion never falls on deaf ears — we learn from youth to serve youth — you can't become a bridge expert by playing solitaire.

BOTH HOUSES MAKE GOING ROUGH FOR HOOVER'S PROGRAM

House Must Mend Senate Farm Bill Vote—Senate House's Tariff Bill

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover's legislative program has had rather rough going in the preliminary stages of its development on Capitol Hill, but administration officers assert they are far from discouraged by the present outlook.

As the situation now stands, it would appear that the chief executive must turn to the house for the undoing of senate action in approving the export debenture proposal as a measure of farm relief and that he must look to the senate for support of his idea of a "limited" tariff revision.

This condition is not at all unusual, but it has attracted more than ordinary notice. Two factors enter into this, the first that the actions of the senate and of the house tariff committee followed so closely upon one another and the second that they furnished first barometric indications as to the state of the atmosphere between the Capitol and the White House.

While the president has refrained from any public statement regarding the tariff bill, he has let some of his friends know that he was quite different ideas as to what constitutes a "limited" revision of the Fordney-McCumber act.

There also is gossip in some official circles that a number of the revisions proposed by the ways and means committee Republicans fall to find favor with him, just as they do in some congressional circles. Republican as well as Democratic.

MEET DIFFICULTIES
Since the Republican leadership in the house is fairly well committed to the committee measure, administration officials expect comparatively few broad changes in the chamber. They also appreciate that the majority leaders in attempting any general rewriting might find themselves facing a situation in the house that easily could get beyond their control.

Pending final house action, senate leaders are unprepared to predict their course on the tariff measure, but some of them, including the majority floor director, Watson of Indiana, voice regret that the house committee brought out a substitute for the present law as that throws the whole tariff question open to debate and action.

Unless the senate finance committee rewrites the house measure and reports merely an amendment to the existing law, as President Hoover expected would be done by the house committee, some leaders in the sen-

DE VALERA SUSPENDED AS RESULT OF QUARREL

DUBLIN, Irish Free State—(AP)—Eamon de Valera, Irish Republican leader, was suspended in the Dail Eireann today, on a motion by President Cosgrave, for attributing unfairness to the speaker. De Valera left the house amid the cheers of his Fianna Fail followers.

DARTMOUTH BECOMING RICH MAN'S COLLEGE

HANOVER, N. H.—(AP)—The Daily Dartmouth, undergraduate publication, believes that Dartmouth college is rapidly becoming a school that only sons of the rich may hope to attend.

In an editorial protest predicated upon the recently announced increase in room rentals by the college trustees the Dartmouth says: "Dartmouth is on the road toward becoming a rich man's college. The tuition has been going up; it even rumored that another raise is imminent; eating costs and other college expenses have made prodigious leaps in the past twenty years.

"Several years ago Dartmouth received much publicity as a result of President Hopkins' plea for an aristocracy of brains. If this aristocracy of brains is ever to become more than an intangible, distant ideal, steps must be taken to avoid the growth of an aristocracy based solely on the chance factors of economic success."

FOREST-CO WILD LIFE REFUGE TO BE ENLARGED

MADISON—(AP)—The American Legion wild life refuge in Forest county will be enlarged by several sections of one township and made into a state park, with the anti-hunting-fishing ban still on the present part, if Governor Kohler signs a bill just concurred in by the assembly.

The Senate passed the bill some time ago and the lower house, after advancing it to third reading, suspended its rules on motion of J. D. Grandine, of Forest and Oneida county, and passed the measure the same day. The 1927 legislature established the game refuge and the present extension calls for arrangements by the conservation commission with the American Legion to continue that organization's care of the refuge and at least part of the state park. The assembly concurrence was unanimous.

ate foresee a session running well into October if not into November.

Administration officers confidently expect the house to eliminate the export debenture plan from the farm bill in conference and house leaders look for little difficulty in this connection as even some of those senate Republicans who voted for the debenture are convinced that President Hoover would return the agriculture measure without his approval if submitted to him in its present form.

Most Trout Caught Now Are Speckled Variety

BY R. A. CLAFIN

The Speckled trout, salvelinus fontinalis, which, by the way, is not a trout at all, but a Charr, spaw is in the late fall, in November, to be exact. Just for the reason that they do spawn in the fall the trout mostly taken during May and early June will be of this variety.

The reason for that may be outlined as follows: Having done their part in the great act of procreation, they remain in the spring holes at the headwaters of the streams all winter, in order to more easily get the necessary air, as well as the food required. When spring freshets and warm weather open the streams the current carries down the many forms of life which nature provides as trout food.

It is then that the speckled trout move down with the fast water toward the mouths of the stream. Here they remain until the hot weather of approaching summer, with its accompanying lower water, again starts

BILL FOR ADVISORY COUNCIL IS ADVANCED

MADISON—(AP)—Another administration consolidation bill has received its first assembly approval and advanced to engrossment during Wednesday's session.

The bill, by the committee on state affairs, would establish an advisory council in the executive office, in doing it substitutes a bureau of purchase and a bureau of engineering for the superintendent of public property, printing board, department of engineering, and cement purchasing commission.

Just before giving the original approval of the bill the assembly reconsidered its killing of the Saugen tax bill.

The bill reduces the deductions allowable in income taxes, repeals the state mill and special taxes and increases state aid to schools.

Having reconsidered the vote by which it had previously killed the bill, the assembly was about to vote on engrossment of the measure when a substitute was presented by C. A. Beggs, Rice Lake. Under the rules consideration of the matter must go over until the next calendar day, while such amendment is being printed and presented to all members.

The Cords resolution for an interim committee to study the need for an consolidation of a children's hospital in connection with Wisconsin General hospital here, was laid on the table pending report of the joint finance committee on a bill appropriating $500,000 for such a hospital. Reports have been that the committee will recommend the appropriation for indefinite postponement, finding insufficient money in the treasury to meet such a large expenditure after major appropriations are made.

them back upward in search of deep holes and colder water. Accordingly then, the early caught fish, as indicated above, will be mostly Speckled trout.

The Rainbow, salmo irideus, which is a true trout has very different habits. Unlike the Speckled beauties, the Rainbows spawn in March, and for that reason do not get down to the lower stretches of water early like the fontinalis. As a result good Rainbow fishing is not to be had until about July 1, and is really at its best beginning, say Aug 1. Likewise the Brown trout, salmo faris, have similar habits.

Just now we are interested in the Speckled trout. Undoubtedly some of the older and more experienced devotees of the rod came back from the opening day with fair catches, but judging from the declared intentions of many of the younger anglers to fish the deep, sluggish portions of the upper waters, there must have been many disappointed but wiser fishermen after the opening day.

Rather than make the long trips to the upper waters of the Wolf, Evergreen or Peshtigo at this time of the year, as I know many did, I prefer to take my chances on some of the smaller streams nearer home. As the season advances, however, they will not bring the results desired. They are too near civilization for one thing, and too open and shallow for another.

The fish as a rule will be found in the shallower parts of the stream during May, and will prefer worms, minnows or Peshtigo at this time of the year, as I know many did, I prefer to take my chances on some of the smaller streams nearer home. As the season advances, however, they will not bring the results desired. They are too near civilization for one thing, and too open and shallow for another.

For those who desire a one day trip and not far off, I might mention the Mc Caslin Brook, the Wapoli or Kings Creek, any one of which should give up some nice fish during May. Highway 32 to Kingston Mountain, and a short trip east from there will bring you to these streams. Some years ago I fished the main west branch of the Wolf with Mr. Antoine, of Chicago, on the opening day. We took the road in east above Neopit and at the first school house on the highway. We got our limits using No. 6 flies, and just three patterns.

Waverly Beach will open Saturday night, May 18, and Glow Naidl and his royal orchestra of Two Rivers will play the opening engagement. The dance hall and orchestra booth have been remodeled.

AMENDMENT DELAYS VOTE ON FISHING BILL

MADISON—(AP)—When Senator George W. Blanchard's bill making residents of Wisconsin over 18 years old pay $1 for a fishing license came before the assembly, E. M. Rowlands, Columbia-co., introduced a substitute amendment providing for sale of a combination fishing and hunting license to state residents for $1.

At present, hunting licenses cost $1, and there is no resident fishing license.

Under the rules of the house, introduction of the substitute delayed action on the Blanchard measure until the best calendar day, early next week.

The Blanchard bill has already passed the state senate and has been engrossed by the assembly.

The Isaac Walton League officials will oppose the Rowlands substitute because they do not believe it will

DUPONT REVEALED AS DONOR TO VIRGINIA U.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—(AP)—The late Philip Francis Dupont of Fairville, Pa., was revealed today as the creator of the trust of $6,000,000 for the benefit of the University of Virginia. Announcement of the trust was made nearly a year ago but the name of the donor was not given.

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman president of the university, in naming the donor today said that one half of the income of the trust was designated by Mr. Dupont as a fund to be used for the creation of scholarships and serve the purpose for which the Blanchard bill was introduced, namely that of raising more money for use of the conservation commission in stocking Wisconsin waters with fish.

Mr. Dupont, a student of the University of Virginia from 1897 to 1900, was born at Greenville, Delaware. He died in Fairville last May at the age of 49 years.

JOHN GILBERT AND INA CLAIRE WED IN NEVADA

Hollywood, Calif.—(AP)—John Gilbert, motion picture hero, and Ina Claire, film actress and former musical comedy star, were back in Hollywood today for an interval of studio work before embarking on their honeymoon.

Miss Claire and Gilbert were married yesterday in a picturesque setting at Las Vegas, Nev., after having made a night trip across the desert from Los Angeles to expedite their marriage plans. A marriage in California involves a three day wait for issuance of a license.

Las Vegas, a desert town near the California border which has taken on new life recently because of its proximity to the site of the proposed Boulder Dam, was expectant. Real estate agents, cowboys, miners and young women crowded into the small office of Justice of the Peace Roger Foley when the film couple arrived. Both gave their ages as 32 years. Foley pronounced them man and wife in a deep bass voice and Gilbert and Miss Claire embraced.

As they emerged from the office they were greeted with cheers and waving of hats. They left almost immediately in an airplane for Hollywood.

Gilbert planned to be back at his studio today and Miss Claire expected to resume work on a film Monday. They plan to live at Beverly Hills until their present pictures are completed and then take a honeymoon trip.

THE finest of all fine arts is the art of living," Mrs. Harvey Frame, Waukesha, said in an inspiring address to members of the Appleton Womens club at their annual banquet at Hotel Northern Thursday evening. Mrs. Frame is state president of Woman's clubs.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE baker said, "Well, howdy do!" I'm pleased at meeting all of you. I'm always fond of little chaps and you are surely small. You've come to have me bake some bread? Well, shortly I will go ahead and put it in the oven just to try and please you all."

"Oh, my, but you are very kind," said Scouty, "and, if you don't mind, we'd like to help you if there is a thing that we can do. We're always glad to do our share, and honestly we do not care how hard it is. It's really fun to work at something new."

The baker smiled and said, "Let's see, if you insist on helping me, three of you lads can build the fire that makes my oven heat. The other one with me can go and sift the flour that makes my dough. Then shortly we will have some bread that you will find a treat."

Then Clowny shouted, "I will sift. I guess I'm not too small to lift the sifter that the flour comes from. At least I'm going to try. The rest of you can gather wood. Be sure you build a fire that's good. I'm sure you'll find some kindling if you'll search both low and high."

So, while the other merry three got just as busy as could be, we Clowny trailed the baker till they reached a table full. "Climb up it," said the baker man. "Get up on top. I'm sure you can. The sifter is all ready and it won't be hard at all."

Then Mister Baker mixed the dough. Of course it had to be just so, and Clowny was real careful to be sure he sifted right. At last the dough was nicely set, and Mister Baker said, "I'll bet my bread is going to turn out fine. Real tasty, brown and light."

(The bread is baked in the next story).

INFANT IS SMOTHERED IN BUGGY BY BLANKET

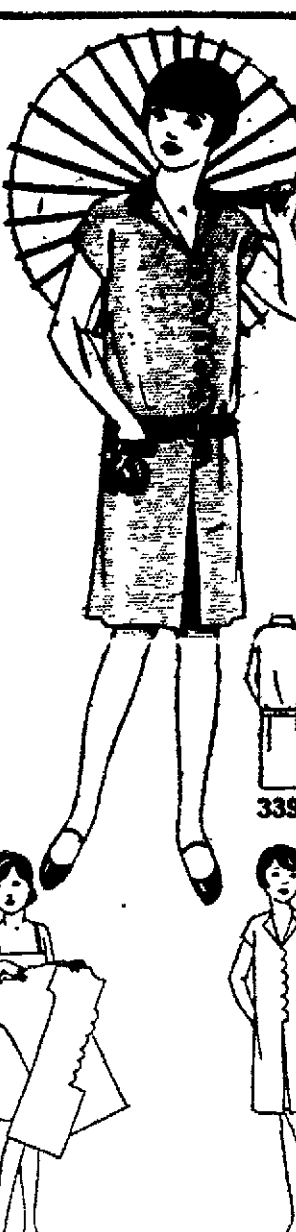

Milwaukee—(AP)—A blanket which had been tucked around 2-month-old James Quast to keep him warm overnight, today was the infant's shroud. Harvey Quast, the infant's father, found his son dead when he stooped over the latter's buggy to awaken him this morning. The baby had been placed in the buggy for the night by the mother, Mrs. Amelia Quast. Physicians said death was due to suffocation.

THE NEW Saint Sinner By Anne Austin

"Cy! Cry! If I live to be a hundred, I'll never forget what a horrible experience buying that ten-cent wedding ring was!" Tony went on.

"You know what a big jewelry department the Five-and-Ten has? Well, there were simply hundreds of wedding rings and engagement rings—marvelous imitations of the real things. Imitation platitudes, with carved orange blossoms, and the 'diamonds' in the engagement rings were set in the very latest style and glittered like headlights. And Cry there was absolutely a run on that counter! Girls pawing through the lot, trying them on, asking each other if they did not look as real as real."

Most of them bought an engagement ring and a wedding ring both—twenty cents for convincing respectability! Some of the girls pretended they wanted the rings as a joke; one girl told the clerk that she wanted them for a real wedding cake, but the salesgirl just shrugged and looked bored — as if she'd heard it all a million times before and didn't believe a word of it. I had to stand there ten minutes before I could make myself pick up one of the beastly things."

"Poor Tony!" Crystal shuddered. "I started to make some crack about a 'joke' for a birthday party cake, then I said to myself that I'd be damned if I would. That was one lie at least that I didn't have to tell. So I just snatched up the first one I came to and handed it to the girl with a mime. Found out later it was miles too big. The girl looked at me kind of funny and said, 'Better get an engagement ring, too, miss. They generally do and it looks more natural.' Get that, Cry? 'They' I was being initiated into a new sorority — 'The Fallen Sisterhood,' and since I was obviously inexperienced, I must be shown the ropes! Well, I said, 'No thanks,' but because the clerk looked kind of sore and I was so horribly embarrassed, I said, 'You sell a lot of these rings?' And she answered, 'Sure—on Saturdays. Week-end trips, you know.'"

"Crystal did not speak. "Dick was to wait for me just outside the door, and I found him weighing himself on one of those fortune-telling scales. 'I made him put the ring in his pocket. I know now that he was surprised that I'd gone that far with our plan, but at the time I could have killed him for laughing. He said I ought to have bought one of the plain gold kind for him; I wouldn't speak to him all through the movie, or driving home, but I had to act as if nothing were wrong when Nis took all of us to a drug store for hot chocolate. He really didn't know whether I was going on with it or not, till I got that phone call and told Cherry that Pat wanted me to come home.'"

She was silent again for so long that Crystal at last said softly, "Don't tell me any more, honey, it's so hard. I understand."

"No, you can't understand unless I tell you the rest," Tony denied. "I had no idea where we were going. Well, we drove at least fifty miles. I suppose. Don't ask me the name of the town. I don't know myself. All I know is it was upstate and on the main road."

COLLEGE EXHIBITS HANDIWORK DISPLAY

Group Includes Many Batiks Made by Javanese Women

A display of original Javanese handiwork, belonging to Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Denvers, E. Washington-st., has been placed on exhibit in the business office of Lawrence college library and will remain there this month. The exhibit includes many batiks made by Javanese women with pictures of how the work is done.

One of the outstanding pieces is a cloisonne bowl of Chinese workmanship which dates back to the fourteenth or fifteenth century, and a Chinese crackle-ware jar of the 19th century which pictures the adventures of three brothers.

Other articles included a Buddhist temple bell made of wood and inlaid with silver wires; a basket made by the head hunters of the upper waters of the Kapuas river in central Borneo; a pair of bracelets made from cross-sections of an elephant's tusk; a totem pole carried by a witchdoctor of the Battak tribe of cannibals in north Sumatra, which is extremely rare; and a book of divination used by the witch doctors of the Battak tribes. This book is made of single strip bark and is written in the ancient Battak language. Dr. and Mrs. Denvers collected these articles when they lived in Borneo and Sumatra.

Cosmos One Of Finest Of Stately Annuals

There isn't a very great variety of tall annuals to deck the back of the border, that is, annuals that reach a height of four feet or more. Of these the cosmos is one of the finest. The best quality bloom is produced by some of the older forms which are so late about getting into action that it is hardly worth while growing them unless the seed is started in the house in March with transplanting to make the seedlings stocky. Lady Lenox is one of the finest of these late bloomers.

The early blooming types give fine flowers and come into bloom in time to pay for their keep and rent for their room. They may be sown outdoors as soon as the ground is workable but care should be taken to protect the seedlings if a nippy night with frost comes along.

The ornamental tobacco, particularly the variety Nicotiana sylvestris, are stately back-of-the-border plants with heads of long tubular flowers terminating in a white star. It is a stately annual.

We now have a race of miniature flowered sunflowers around three to four feet in height that rival the galliard in coloring being banded with red and ranging from creamy white to deep yellows, all with fine dark contrasting centers. They are fine for cutting and are worth a trial. They are one of the fine novelties of the year among the annuals.

The old spider plant, Cheome pungens, continues to be a favorite in both its white and purple forms and is much used in park planting. Its curious spidery flowers and ornamental foliage never fail to attract attention.

Among plants approaching the tall class are the colossal zinnias and the African marigolds. They will make three feet or more and give a wonderful display of bloom for the last half of the summer. Not much is gained by sowing either indoors as sown May 1 in most sections they will catch up with transplanted plants from earlier sowings. The African marigolds should be staked as soon as they have attained a height of 18 inches as their heavy foliage makes them easy victims of winds.

RESCUES DESCRIBED IN VESTRIS' SINKING

London.—(P)—Scenes of the sinking of the Vestriss were described by Myrick John, Negro boatswain's mate aboard the ill-fated vessel in the course of testimony today before the board of trade inquiry into the disaster.

After telling of a vain effort to get the No. 12 lifeboat into the water, which was impossible because of the ship's list, they were trying to get No. 13 out when the Vestriss took a sudden cant and started to sink.

"No. 13 floated off the poop," said John, "and after again trying to get No. 12 out, I went overboard and swam to No. 13. My mate did the same and helped me into the boat. There was nobody else there at all."

There were 19 of the crew and 4 men passengers in the boat when they were picked up by the steamship Berlin and it was only in reply to repeated urgings that John told how he and the mate saved the other twenty-one persons.

"We pulled the boat around and pulled them out of the water," he said simply.

HOLD UP ACTION ON REQUEST FOR MORE POSTOFFICE FUNDS

Committee Awaiting Report of Site Agent Who Will Visit City

BY RUBY A. BLACK

Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent — The Interdepartmental Public Buildings committee of the Treasury and Postoffice departments will take up the need for a larger appropriation for the Appleton postoffice building after the site agent visits Appleton and investigates land values and the cost of the most advantageous site.

Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton has taken up with the committee the request of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce that an additional $100,000 be appropriated for the Appleton postoffice, bringing the total limit of cost to $350,000.

An appropriation of $75,000 is now available to buy the site and start construction, and sites ranging in cost from $29,000 to $142,000 have been offered the government.

Representative Schneider said that the question of increasing the limit of cost to $350,000 could be taken up without delaying the actual beginning of work. It will be necessary for an appropriation for completing work on the building to be made in the regular session of the Seventy-first Congress which convenes in December. If the Interdepartmental Public Buildings Committee decides, after an inspection of sites at Appleton, that more money will be needed to take care of Appleton's needs and provide a postoffice building that will be adequate for next couple of decades or the next half-century, it is possible in the limit of cost can be authorized in the same bill in which the next appropriation is included.

LIMIT INCREASED TWICE

The limit of cost of the Appleton building has already been increased twice. It was first decided to build only an extension and enlargement of the present building, at an estimated cost of $215,000. It was found after a second survey that an extension and remodeling of the present building would not meet Appleton's needs, and a $250,000 new building was authorized. Only a few weeks later, however, this was increased to $280,000.

Representative Schneider is keeping in touch with the interdepartmental committee on the question of an increased appropriation, but nothing definite can be said on the prospects for the increase until after the site agent, to be sent to Appleton soon, has made his report.

Representative Schneider took up the problem with W. O. Thiede, president of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, when he was here attending the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The congressman wired Kenneth H. Corbett of his action after receiving the telegram stating the request of the Chamber of Commerce and the Appleton city officials for more money for the building.

REJECT VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS PROPOSAL

Madison (AP)—Senator Ben Getteman's bill providing for the regulations intended for compulsory attendance at vocational schools was rejected by the senate today. His measure provided that parents of children between 16 and 18 years might obtain permits from juvenile judges to excuse the children from attending vocational schools. The vote by which the bill was indefinitely postponed was 15 to 13.

The senate also indefinitely postponed the Caldwell bill which would have required voters to stay within the ranks of one political party for at least two elections. Under the present primary law, a voter receives the ballots of all the parties. Caldwell's bill provided the voter must designate to which party he belongs and the election clerks would give him only that party's ticket. The measure was rejected 18 to 10.

Southern Women War On Homage Paid To Lincoln

New Orleans, La. (AP)—The old south clashed with the new yesterday in the Louisiana division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, over the greatness of President Abraham Lincoln and southern homage to the memory of the emancipator.

The Daughters of the Southern Cause yesterday declined to adopt a resolution of Mrs. Jefferson Davis Weir of New Orleans, expressing regret that Louisiana school children made a trip early this year to another state and recited "Lincoln at Gettysburg" at a Lincoln Memorial celebration. Many members did, however, frown upon the trip and a compromise motion was adopted urging discouragement of Lincoln's birthday observance in the southern public schools.

"We all know that Lincoln was not a great man," said Mrs. W. B. Kernon of New Orleans. "We know he was not the fine Christian gentleman he is said by partisan historians to have been. How can southern children lead this truth of history if they go around paying homage to his memory?"

Mrs. Miriam L. Green another New Orleans member, countered with the suggestion that action censuring southerners for honoring Lincoln would foster ill feeling in all parts of the country and asked that no action be taken on the proffered resolution. To these remarks were added those of Mrs. F. P. Jones of Leesville, recited state president, who said "any true southern mother would have said 'no' when asked if her child might give a recitation at a Lincoln memorial celebration in a northern state."

WEST AND SOUTH
CONTROL SENATE

ular Republicans have a majority, it would bring about a presidential veto if the senate measure ever reached the White House for consideration.

But it does mean that Mr. Hoover has on his hands the fight that his predecessor had, and that the speech Mr. Hoover made in Madison Square Garden against socialist nostrums ranged him then as it does today on the side of the eastern conservatives. All thought that Mr. Hoover might fall in line with the westerners or the so-called progressive group had faded. Inasmuch as Mr. Borah for instance, has seen fit to desert the president on a major issue, so Mr. Hoover is free now to break loose from the Borah ideas in other directions. No longer is the campaign obligation which Mr. Hoover might have felt he owed to Senator Borah as likely to trouble the president. It involves no personal feeling. It means merely that Borah remains the independent of the west free to approve or disapprove of what Mr. Hoover does and that his regularity applied to the campaign alone and not to the interpretation of campaign promises.

HELPS DEMOCRATS

The senate revolt comes at a time when the Democrats were seeking something to revive their party morale. Mr. Hoover, unaware that the Republicans would so soon desert him, had made no effort to win Democratic support for there are conservatives in the minority party who could form a coalition with the Republican conservatives and control the senate.

Unless Mr. Hoover is able to break down Democratic solidarity he will have lost control of the legislative situation. As it is congress will, by a series of compromises, write both the tariff and the farm legislation and Mr. Hoover may be as powerless as was President Coolidge to steer congress to his side.

As for the southern states that voted for Mr. Hoover, their representatives in the senate stuck with the regular Democratic program. Thus may it be said that in May of 1929 was the true significance of the November 1928 election definitely established. It was a personal victory for Herbert Hoover or an anti-Smith protest but it had no meaning so far as major issues were concerned for sections of groups interested and not parties control the legislative branch of the government today.

HUBER IS UPHELD IN PARLIAMENTARY RULING

Madison—(AP)—By a vote of 25 to 8 the senate Thursday upheld Lieut. Gov. Henry A. Huber in a parliamentary ruling last Tuesday during the heat of the controversy between the Socialist Progressive coalition on one hand and the Conservative majority on the other.

In that ruling, Mr. Huber, a staunch Progressive ruled in favor of the Conservatives. At his request, Senator George W. Blanchard Conservative, appealed the decision.

On the vote Thursday, six Progressives and two Socialists lined up against Huber. The remaining 25 senators sided with the lieutenant governor.

RIOT! MAN ARRESTED!
ANOTHER? GHOST? NO.
ONLY TWIN BROTHER!

Chicago—(AP)—Speaking of riots, there was quite a one last night in front of 4501 N. Keating-ave. Officer Roy Hammer was sent to quell it and returned to the police station with the rioter, Hiram Schofield.

"Well," said Officer Hammer after putting Hiram in a cell, "that riot's over."

He sat down to regain his aplomb. Quelling riots is very harmful at one's aplomb.

"Say, you," shouted the sergeant, "I thought I sent you over to stop the riot."

"Yes, sir. Quite right, sir," said the officer, "and I so did. The culprit is now in custody."

"Oh, very, very good," mused the sergeant. "I just had another call."

and they said the riot was on again, and that Schofield was doing it."

Officer Hammer went back to the cell block. Yes, Schofield was there, safe enough. Then he hastened out to 4501 N. Keating. There, too, was Schofield and what a riot he was having!

The policeman was convinced that Schofield's ghost or something was responsible, but he arrested him anyway. At the station Schofield said his name was Abraham and that he was Hiram's twin brother.

TWO BODIES OF SLAIN
TRIO GO BACK TO ITALY

Chicago—(AP)—The bodies of John Scalisi and Albert Anselmi were prepared for shipment to Italy. Joseph Giunta, third of the Hammond, Ind., gang murder victims, will be buried here.

No flowers were received at the mortuary for Scalisi and Anselmi a circumstance contrary to the traditions of gang killings which invariably are followed by lavish floral displays of sympathy. At the home of Giunta, however, there were numerous imposing tributes of flowers and arrangements for a costly funeral and burial were made.

Police investigation of the triple killing centered around a search for Joe Aiello who has been sought also for questioning concerning the Valentine's day massacre in which seven gangsters were killed. Aiello's name is the only one so far mentioned in the police hunt for the Scalisi-Anselmi Giunta slayers.

Dust Treatment Doesn't Get Clear Endorsement

Although the dusting of seed corn to prevent root rot has proved effective in some experiments, the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin is not ready to endorse the treatment without making certain reservations, according to Gus Sell, county agent.

Boiled down, a report of the plant pathologists of the institution says that the dusting will never take the place of well cured seed or a well prepared seed bed.

"Under no case in Wisconsin," continues the announcement, "has the treating of corn given any marked increase in yields, when ordinary good conditions prevailed for corn growing. Nor has the treatment of the seed been of any value in controlling common diseases, such as corn smut and rust."

The practice is of doubtful value where strong, kiln dried seed is used or where planting is delayed until the soil has warmed to a favorable temperature for quick growing.

Excellent results with the dusting, however, have been reported on farms where root rot or seedling were present from last year's crop or were introduced by the seed. It has made early planting safer in cold soils and has helped to control seedling blight when the disease was the result of a fungus infection.

The seed treatment is a cheap and cheap, according to the university report. The cost of treating sufficient seed for an acre is less than 10 cents. Some dusts have proved effective than others. Since the cost of treatment is almost negligible some farmers regard it as a matter of insurance and do it regularly.

LATIN HAS EVERYDAY
USES, STUDENTS FIND

The proletariat can rave and rant about the study of Latin, dub it a dead language and cast derogatory remarks about its value, but the Latin pupils at Wilson junior high school are constantly finding everyday uses for Latin words. Sometime ago an energetic Latin student made a poster listing all the streets in Appleton with Latin derivatives, another pupil showed the use of a knowledge of Latin in the medical and legal professions, and now Frances Dorothy Ehlke and Marcelle Haberman have found 49 birds whose names come directly from the Latin. The poster displays the pictures of all the birds, their English names, and the Latin words from which they were taken.

SIGNIFICANCE OF POPPY EXPLAINED TO LEGION WOMEN

Money from Poppy Sales Helps Defray Hospitalization Expenses

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Approximately one hundred people attended the annual Poppy program given by the American Legion auxiliary at Legion hall Thursday evening. Miss Cora Brown, department treasurer of the American Legion Auxiliary and state Poppy chairman, was the guest of honor and speaker. "The world war brought about a great international unification of thought and action," stated Miss Brown. She explained the strong tie that led service men to band together to continue in the same spirit of comradeship with which they fought for each other. To help the Legion in its service to the buddies, the assistance of their nearest of kin was enlisted and the Auxiliary was organized.

"Wherever there is need of service to any world war veteran we find the Legion and its Auxiliary standing ready to help," Miss Brown said. "As an emblem of the great service and supreme sacrifices of the boys who fought and as a memorial of those who sleep, the Poppy has found its place, the blood blood and the heart of the Legion. Back of the poppy is a war story, a story of blood shed and human sacrifice. We wear the flower on poppy day to show that we remember, and to pay homage to our boys by wearing it. People are coming to understand the meaning of the poppy and are buying the Legion flower more generously because of this. They are realizing more and more that its significance makes it valuable."

Poppies are made in Wisconsin only at the National Veterans Home at Milwaukee and at Memorial hospital at Madison. There are over 1,100,000 service flowers made in the United States last year of which 500,000 were made in Wisconsin. The poppy production period at the government hospitals lasts for about six months and costs the state approximately $18,000, Miss Brown said.

Each hospitalized veteran is paid 1 cent each for the flowers he makes and proceeds from their sale are used for rehabilitation and child welfare work. Thus the making of these little symbolic poppies serves a two fold purpose. It gives the disabled veteran an opportunity to earn and it provides funds to help keep the families of the hospitalized veterans together. The state of Arizona is outstanding in the number of disability cases in the government hospitals. This is doubtless due to the fact that many veterans seek the western climate in the hope of benefiting their health.

France, England and Canada also have their annual poppy days. Last year, Miss Brown said, there were 30,000,000 poppies sold in England, as compared with 7,000,000 sold in the United States. An order for 9,000 poppies from Alaska, was filled by the two Wisconsin hospitals.

Musical numbers on the program included selections by a quartet composed of Henry P. Freeling, Carlton B. Reuter, C. Bergland and G. R. Comery, vocal selection by the Rev. Henry P. Freeling, vocal selection by A. A. Verba, musical reading "The Soldiers Field" by Miss Elizabeth Garout, with response by Miss Eunice Rickaby, E. L. Reuter and Alton Eogen acted as accompanists. Miss Brown was presented with a gift from the Auxiliary, Helen Jean Schoenrock, a member of the Junior Auxiliary making the presentation. Pop singing was led by the Rev. Mr. Freeling. Lunch was served, with Mrs. Mayne Steier as chairman of the committee.

A beautiful gift for her graduation a chest . . . steeped in the romance of the past

THE DOWLING DOWRY CHEST by LANE

The design of this chest reverts to an old dowry chest said to have been used in the Court of King James I in about the year 1620.

According to the story, one of the court attaches, a Sir Henry Dowling, had one daughter whom he loved very dearly.

This daughter, Amelia, had been sent to a convent on the continent. When she was ready to return to England, Sir Henry, in true fatherly fashion, desired to commemorate her home coming with a gift.

So he called in the artisans and he ordered them to make a chest which should surpass all others in beauty. He selected the wood, watched the work step by step, and finally when the chest was completed, nobody in all the Court had ever seen one lovelier.

Amelia came home. She accepted the chest with heart overflowing with joy. And, according to the story which ends just as all such stories should, she married, settled down and lived happily ever after.

The gift from her father then passed on down through many generations finally to bestow its wealth of beauty and romance upon this modern adaptation, the Dowling Hope Chest, specially designed for the Girl Graduate by Lane—the world's foremost cedar chest maker.

This chest has the loveliest of Oriental and American walnut veneers on the outside and the choicest of aromatic cedar heartwood on the inside, the cedar being 3/4 inch thick in accordance with the U.S. Government recommendations for a moth-killing cedar chest. Heavily paneled top richly embellished with carved mouldings. The chest is roomy, capacious, inviting—indeed a charming treasure to hand down to future generations.

We shall be most happy to have you inspect this chest. For the Girl Graduate—for any girl or young woman—no finer or more acceptable gift is easily conceivable. The price is $35. Convenient terms may be arranged, if desired. We show many other pleasing Lane models.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT GROWERS BAND TO STABILIZE PRICES

Organization Intends to Concentrate on Raisins This Season

BY BEN G. KLINE
Copyright, 1929 by Cons. Press

San Francisco—While congress is debating the merits of the decontrol scheme and a proposal to leave the fruit industry outside the realm of federal farm relief, groups interested in the growing, marketing and financing of California fruits have gotten together and organized the first stabilization corporation in the country in line with provisions of the house farm relief measure.

Anticipating that the farm bill will be passed in substantially its present form, except for the decontrol plan, but fearing that passage will not take place soon enough to affect disposal of this year's crop, agricultural leaders in this state have arranged to have private capital underwrite the activities of the newly incorporated federal fruits stabilization corporation. The corporation plans to secure credit for future operations from the federal farm board.

Organizers of the corporation propose this season to stabilize the price of a single commodity, raisins, but naturally steps taken to peg prices in this year's crop, agricultural leaders in this state have arranged to have private capital underwrite the activities of the newly incorporated federal fruits stabilization corporation. The corporation plans to secure credit for future operations from the federal farm board.

The stabilization corporation was organized by supporters of the California Vineyardists association, a sort of trade association the grape industry, and of the Sunnyside Raisin Growers association, a Sunnyside Sales Corporation, a big cooperative in the raising industry, by Representative bankers, shippers and rail executives.

OFFERING CONTRACTS

The corporation is offering raisin producers (growers) three year contracts at stated prices which are for this season the highest offered since 1925 and which increased at the rate of about 1/4 cent a pound (or about 6 per cent) each successive year. The Sunnyside organization controls about 40 per cent of the crop and with this as a basis the corporation has the task of signing up the other 60 per cent to make its control 100 per cent effective.

After taking the crop of sweatbox raisins as it comes from the ranches, the corporation would sell it back to the cooperative selling organization and to private packers (without price discrimination holding for storage or diverting to by-products manufacture sufficient to stabilize the market. The Sunnyside Sales corporation would make the raisins, grape sugar and other processed products manufactured from the "surplus". The corporation would determine what portions of the crop each year would be marketed as raisins, fresh fruit and grape products.

Financing which organizers state has already been assured would permit payments to growers in cash upon delivery, and the contracts provide for return of any profits to growers. The Associated California fruit industries with 2500 members who are growers of tree fruits, is supporting the plan, and after this season it is proposed to deal in the entire fruit crop of the state.

There are two reasons for the raisin industry being the first to try to benefit from the proposed federal farm relief plan. One is that probably a majority of raisin growers have had to dip into their capital in order to live during the last three years, and the other is that these growers have through the development of cooperation learned to pool their interests. The results will be watched in this state as a test of the value of stabilization corporations as a form of agricultural relief.

New Gang War

Another chapter in Chicago's long story of gang warfare was written with the finding of the bodies of three men the other day just across the Indiana line and identified as John Scalsi, Albert Anselmi and Joe Perardi. Police blame the slaying upon the reported return of Johnny Torrio, who retired from the beer wars after rivals had wounded him in two previous encounters. Scalsi and Anselmi were henchmen of Al Capone and were said to have had a hand in the Valentine Day massacre of seven members of the gang of "Bugs" Moran. The slaying of Scalsi and Anselmi is said by police to mark the beginning of a Torrio-Moran-Aielo campaign for supremacy in the beer and vice rackets, of which Capone was over-looked. Torrio is shown at the top. In the center is Scalsi, and below is Anselmi.

Three Places In Irak May Be Paradise Site

Bagdad, Irak—(AP)—Seekers for the site of the Biblical Garden of Eden quest to Irak, where in the valley of the Euphrates they may have choice of three places which have claims to be the genuine and original Paradise.

If one were to ask the man in the street either in Bagdad or Basra for information as to the first home of Adam and Eve, he would unfailingly be directed to Kurna, at the confluence of the Euphrates and the Tigris rivers, as the exact spot. Such indeed is the ancient tradition of the country.

Another place, however, is believed by Sir William Wilcox who spent a number of years in Irak on irrigation works, as the fair land indicated by the first promise of the spot lies between the Euphrates and the Tigris, near Ur of the Chaldees, the birthplace of Abraham.

Supporting his belief, Sir William Wilcox quotes Genesis, Chapter 2, Verse 10: "A river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted and became into four heads" and Verses 5 and 6 of the same chapter: "The Lord God had not caused it to rain upon the earth... But there went up a mist from the earth and watered the whole face of the ground."

Sir William advances the opinion that the word "mist" is an inexact translation, and that the proper rendering would speak of natural irrigation as opposed to artificial watering. This spot near Ur is said to be a land formation where a river was "parted and became into four heads."

Also, says Sir William, it is a marshy plain, where water is plentiful throughout the 12 months. Support is lent to the belief that this was the

WICKERSHAM SEEN AS HEAD OF HOOVERS LAW INQUIRY BOARD

Former Attorney General Praises President's Plea for War on Crime

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—George W. Wickersham of New York who was attorney general in the Taft administration and is regarded as President Hoover's most likely choice for the chairmanship of his law enforcement commission, is taking an active part in fostering the chief executive's ideas along that line.

Here to attend the meeting of the American Law Institute, of which he is president, Mr. Wickersham took occasion to praise the president's New York address to the Associated Press on law enforcement and to call upon his professional colleagues to support the executive in that program. The program, he said, is not concerned with any one law or policy, but with the perpetuation of civil liberty which can not long endure if the law of the land loses its hold upon the conscience of our fellow citizens.

Chief Justice Taft, speaking at the same meeting with his former attorney general, said he was glad to see that the nation's legislators were becoming interested in the improvement of enforcement methods, and declared:

MUST IMPRESS SOLONS

"Until we get the legislators of the nation thoroughly charged with the knowledge of their duty with respect to furnishing to lawyers and judges the means of improvement, we shall not find that improvement."

In view of Mr. Wickersham's prospective appointment as head of

TWO MORE BOMBS ARE HURLED NEAR CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—Two bombs were hurled early today in different parts of the county and both caused considerable damage. Three men were arrested in connection with one bombing, which partially wrecked the Avenue inn, a roadhouse in Niles, a northwest suburb.

In the other bombing, the dairy plant of Josef Wagner, in suburban Cicero, was damaged. Wagner recently obtained an injunction to prevent officials of a milk dealers' association from annoying him.

Of the three arrested in connection with the roadhouse bombing, Peter Oskowski, former chief of police of Niles and owner of the place, identified William Cuno, his recent political rival, as a man with whom he recently had trouble. Cuno yesterday was held to the grand jury on an assault and battery charge against Oskowski growing out of an altercation during a recent election for chief of police.

MODERN KONJOLA HIGHLY PRAISED BY HAPPY LADY

"This Wonderful Medicine Is the One I should Have Had in the First Place"—All Else Failed

Konjola, the new and different medicine; the medicine that conquers when all else has failed, is now in Appleton. The enormous success it has accomplished wherever introduced, Konjola makes good simply because it is

MRS. S. T. KIRKPATRICK

Made to make good; it succeeds simply because it is a success. Konjola is unlike other medicines in many ways. First, it is emphatically not a medicine of promises. It stands alone and only on a foundation of victories, successes, triumphs. Konjola is not a medicine aimed at mere temporary relief. Its goal is new, abundant and glorious health, no matter what treatment has failed; no matter how long the suffering has been endured; no matter if hope of recovery has been well nigh abandoned. But the best way is to learn all about this new medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs. See what Konjola has done and is doing. Know what Konjola means to all who would know again the happiness that comes with health. You may hear the amazing story of this super remedy from the Konjola Man, who is at Schlicht Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., this city, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this medicine.

An everlasting truth it is that we profit by the experiences of others. What a wonderful thing it would be could all who suffer from what the thousands of former sufferers could tell you about this master medicine and its works. Read then, every word of the statement of Mrs. S. T. Kirkpatrick, 1331 Loyola Avenue, Chicago. Beaming with new health Mrs. Kirkpatrick said:

"No words of mine are eloquent enough to pay to Konjola the tribute that it deserves for what it did for me. Before I heard of this amazing medicine I was just about to give up all hope of ever seeing another well day. Some months ago I underwent an operation for gonorrhea, and the shock of this undermined my general health. I was terribly run-down, and not a medicine I tried tended to build me up. My nerves were shattered, appetite disappeared, and because of bladder weakness I was up all hours of the night. The loss of sleep, under-nourishment, nervousness and terrible headaches had about driven me to despair.

"I was in this pitiable physical and mental state when Konjola was recommended to me. I was so discouraged that I had little or no faith left in any medicine, but as I knew that something must be done I finally decided to try this new medicine to the test. What a fine decision that was! Just as I was told it would do, Konjola went to the very source of my troubles. I began to feel better at once. The results were marvelous. In just four weeks, in which time I took four bottles of this master medicine, I was as a new woman. My nerves are calm, digestion is fine, I can sleep all night every night, and I have not had a headache since the first few days with Konjola. I never dreamed there could be such a medicine, and I endorse it with all my heart."

The Konjola Man is at Schlicht Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., Appleton, where he is daily meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine. Free samples given.

BIG DANCE DERBY IN NEW YORK PUTS COMICS TO SHAME

Moral Seems to Be: Eat
Sealskin Pie With Furry
Side Out

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York.—There is a new comic strip in which an eccentric count, comfortably housed in an insane asylum, occasionally escapes. Some strange paradox of life as it is always drives him back to the comparative sanity of his nice warm squirrel cage, and he vows never to escape again.

If the count should wander into Madison Square Garden at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, he will burn up the road on the way back home, and this time he probably will keep his vow, and stay in. This latest dementia is the annual dance derby, which added major and minor insanities which make it quite the most delirious and altogether gaga event of this sometimes goofy metropolis.

First of all, the dance derby, daffy enough in itself, will be complicated by Shipwreck Kelly standing on a sixty-foot flagpole. Mr. Kelly will be remembered as the modern St. Simeon Stylites who goes around sitting or standing on flagpoles for a week or so at a time. The main idea of this, if any, is that Mr. Kelly is challenging the dancers: he proposes to stand on the pole longer than they dance. The pole has been placed in the center of the garden arena.

Then there is Alexander Myer, who will contribute to the general phantasmagoria his famous "goofy gallop." Mr. Myer, with Mrs. Myer, holds the undisputed rocking chair championship of Russia and Afghanistan. He also will be pitted against the dancers. In an effort to rock without stopping, in an old-fashioned straight-backed rocker, until the last dancer succumbs.

ISN'T SO EASY
It might appear that Mr. Myer had picked something soft in the way of athletic pastimes, but connoisseurs of the art say that, after the first few days of rocking, even the strongest muscles and the emptiest skulls give way under the strain.

Art Hoffman, of Gloucester, N. J., the world's champion endurance automobile driver, will lose a lot of sleep and maybe get cramps, by traveling about 8,000 miles in an automobile standing still. The racing car will be jacked up, so the wheels will be clear, but running as the engine turns over at a 70-mile-an-hour rate. Mr. Hoffman will be shackled in the automobile. It is explained that this is just as difficult as driving a car which is actually moving, and that Mr. Hoffman, like his conferees, Mr. Kelly and Mr. Myer, will find it hard work to outstay the dancers. This will be one of the pet deliriums of the show, as the reader will be open, and unbridled noise is a great aid to this delightful mania.

Milt Crandall is the promoter. Among the interlocking directorates of dementia praecox common, Mr. Crandall appears as the former associate of Mr. "Cash and Carry" Pyle, who started the "transcontinental bunion derbies, and whose sore-footed legions are now slogging through the war western deserts.

Madison Square Garden, listed on the Stock Exchange, still holds its financial position. The moral of all this seems to be that sealskin pie should be eaten with the furry side out.

DISMISS CHARGES AGAINST GRUNERT

A charge of allowing his dog to run loose, lodged against N. H. Grunert, 222 N. Union-st, was dismissed after Grunert agreed to pay doctor bills and damage caused when the animal attacked Wesley, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Johnson, 1013 E. North-st. Grunert was arrested on complaint of Johnson. Grunert also agreed that his animal should be killed and its head sent to Madison for a rabies test. The animal attacked the boy as he was passing the Grunert home and bit him in the leg and arm.

Wedding Ring Getting Thinner And Costlier

The tie that binds is getting thinner and thinner — and more expensive. We're speaking of wedding rings — the old fashioned three-quarter inch bands of solid yellow gold, and the newfangled one-eighth inch engraved circlet of white gold.

Time was when the prospective groom could bring in a five dollar gold piece grandfather gave him for his eighteenth birthday and have it blow-torched into a wedding ring for his one and only — he might have to sit around for a half a day while the jeweler hammered it into shape, but even at that he often got the ring for little more than the price of the gold. Now a ring one-sixth its size costs $5.

Along in 1910 wedding rings were about three quarters of an inch wide of yellow gold, and two rings went to every wedding. In those days they were hand made with the use of a blow torch, and a 14-karat ring cost about $18. In 1912, according to a local jeweler, the foothill towns with gas attachment revolutionized the manufacture of wedding rings, and the rings became about one-half inch wide, with five and a half to six pennyweight of gold in them. In 1915, with the coming of the satellite fire, came the plain gold narrow Tiffany ring, about one-eighth of an inch in width. The yellow and green gold Tiffany's were in use in 1917, and suddenly in 1919 the white gold circlet appeared. Ever since the white gold has been improved until now it

RUM RUNNERS BALK WASHINGTON COPS WITH POISON GAS

Police Dare Not Shoot into Smoke Clouds — Killing
Stirs Congress

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—The battle of prohibition is being fought out in the national capital in more ways than one.

Washington bootleggers have introduced the "smoke screen" automobile as a counter-weapon against the Jones-Stalker law and the announced intention of law enforcement officials to make the capital a dry town.

The result is that Washington cops are having their worst days and that some of the most bitter debate in the history of prohibition is raging in Congress.

The city reeks with thrills as bootleggers disappear these days in huge clouds of suffocating smoke which often contains mustard or red pepper—or when, as happened in one case, the police fire blindly into the smoke screen in hopes of winging the driver.

A DANGEROUS GAME
It's a game full of danger for any one who happens to be near, as well as the bootleggers and the cops.

Wild rum chases, with bullets spattering here and there and often hitting innocent bystanders, have been fairly frequent in Washington for years. Senator Frank Greene of Vermont is still disabled as the result of a bullet which a prohibition agent fired out of an alley as he passed by one night. But the smoke screens offer more dangerous possibilities than ever. Faced by the heavy penalties of the Jones-Stalker law, the bootleggers have adopted increasingly desperate methods.

The smoke screen apparatus is home made and usually is constructed from a large garden spray. The interior is filled with a mixture of kerosene, gasoline and acid. A pipe runs therefrom to the exhaust pipe. Vigorous use of the hand pump forces the mixture into the exhaust and creates a terrific smoke barrage in the wake of the car which sometimes envelops the entire street.

USE AMMONIA, MUSTARD
Some bootleggers use ammonia, red pepper and mustard in their mixture and some do not.

Already five policemen, after being blinded and choked as they pursued a rum car so equipped, have been treated at hospitals and sent back to their jobs with very sore throats.

Chief of Police Henry G. Pratt has been making inquiries of other police chiefs with the idea of equipping his force with armored cars. He does not dare order indiscriminate shooting into smoke screens.

Most users of smoke screens escape. That's why they use the device. It began to be introduced on a comparatively large scale soon after the "Five and Ten" law went into effect.

About two weeks ago, after a series of unsuccessful chases after rum-running cars which escaped in their own smoke, the police captain of the 11th precinct ordered his men to "rid the district of smoke-screen rum-runners."

POLICE KILL YOUTH
A few days later, about 3 a. m. two of his policemen chased a car over the Anacostia bridge. The exhaust of the pursued car began to belch smoke. The police fired five shots and the fifth hit 21-year-old Herman Fleming in the head, killing him instantly as the blinding smoke spread in a great blanket almost the length of the bridge.

Members of Congress, including some dries, began to voice loud protests. Debate broke out in the House. Some yelled "Murder!" and some yelled "Hooray!" As Congressman Hoadley of Illinois described how the fifth bullet had crashed into the young man's head and killed him many members applauded. Strong language was used in comment on this applause by members and Congressmen. LeGuardia, of New York and Kvale of Minnesota, who was elected on the claim that he was "drier than Volstead," have been trying to get the word "applause" stricken from the Congressional Record. The extent of the victim's guilt has not been determined.

SLAYER IS SUSPENDED

The policeman who shot Fleming was suspended and held for the grand jury. On the same day another police car chased and fired vainly at another smoke screen car, which they said had baffled them with its barrage on two nights in succession.

Since that the police have just been letting the smoke-screens escape.

The police are now realizing the danger of suspension and trial on a criminal charge in the event of a fatality. In one day four instances of "smoke" escapes were reported, bringing the number of cases to about a score.

Chief Pratt has said that his men must use their own judgment about the necessity of shooting and that they will have to take the responsibility. He has ordered a search for automobiles equipped with the device.

But for the time being, Washington's bootleggers seem to be sitting tight.

Mrs. Mary Heins has returned from Racine where she visited her daughter, Mrs. Anton Smith, for two days.

GRAIN JAM IS STILL BOTHERING CANADIANS

Port Colborne, Ont.

Tonnage continued to arrive here today at a slow rate and unless there is a betterment in condition, it was dropped in on the city recently. It is apparent that the grain jam may be come worse. Several boats are now loading at the head of the lakes and some are expected to clear for Port Colborne within a day or two.

VERY WELL DRESSED

Cleveland—Robert Bankhead was dressed for any social event when he dropped in on the city recently. However he hadn't planned on swimming. Police found him in a freight car, dressed in five shirts, three pairs of trousers, two vests and two coats.

He was taken from the car into the lake. It took an hour to fish him out.

CONGRESS HOPES TO MAKE LAW FIT SWIFT RADIO ART

Senate Interstate Commerce Committee Working on Recommendations

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press.
Washington—Once again congress is undertaking the Herculean task of trying to make radio law fit the swiftly moving radio art. It is plotting a course of inquiry and investigation that, in one continuous movement, will invade all fields of communication and bring them under a common federal jurisdiction.

The senate interstate commerce committee, delegated to sift out the radio law, is now working with all its international ramifications and bring to the senate a measure that will insure its competent management, has held its first session. Differences of opinion among its members as to the initial procedure have developed but the thought prevails that the hearings will resolve themselves into the most sweeping inquiry into communication generally ever held.

Senator Watson of Indiana, republican floor leader, opposed an investigation of alleged monopoly charges in radio or other communications, as espoused by Senator Dill, democrat of Washington. First, he said, the committee has not the authority to subpoena witnesses and that appearances thus would be voluntary and only one side of the case would be presented. To get authority for an "investigation," he said, the committee would have to petition the senate and a resolution passed authorizing this and the payment of expenses of witnesses.

But Senator Dill insisted that the senate must get all of the facts about what is being done in radio and in telephony, telegraphy and cables. The hearings will develop automatically into production of these facts, he said.

In any event the committee hopes to cover the radio phases of its task and in so doing call upon practically all of the high officials and leaders in the art and industry for their views. Later the high ranking officials identified with the wired communications will be invited or requested to testify.

STUDENTS STUDYING NATURAL RESOURCES

Various Groups in Wilson School Concentrate on Different Products

By writing to cotton manufacturers, mining experts, sugar growers, and studying encyclopedias and textbooks, pupils of the 8 A section of social sciences at Wilson junior high school, taught by Miss Hilda Kippenhorn, have made an exhaustive study of the natural resources of the United States. The class was divided into committees, each group working on a different product. Booklets, and posters were made, and comprehensive reports presented before the class.

Cotton was studied by Misses Mary Mortimer, Helen Cabot and Ramona Hooyman; fruit by Misses Winifred McCary and Julia Devoe, textiles by Misses Hazel Chadek, Mildred Hoffman, Adrian Reider, and Marie Rulger; forests, Misses Pearl Buss, Alice Horn, Florence Paronto; fish, Walter Larsen, Milton Schulze, and Alan Bio, sugar, William McCary and Carl Moderson, meat and dairy products, Misses Frances Barrett, Geraldine Radder and Thelma Wheeler; leather and rubber, Charles Ehike, Chester Krautich, and Marshall Brewer, minerals, Lester Welharmis, Junior Branchford, and Norman Paessler, wheat and corn, Arthur Deltour and Harry Kreutzer, and iron and steel, Misses Ramona Hagan and Florence Nines.

The best booklet on the subject "A Forest Ranger's Journal," a part of the study of Wisconsin history, was turned in by Miss Delia Van Den Bosch. A poem on Wisconsin history was turned in for extra credit by Miss Dorothy Ehike and Marcella J. Berman.

42 ARRESTED ON DRY CHARGES IN MONTH

Madison —(P)— From one to seven arrests were made in 14 Wisconsin counties for alleged violation of the state prohibition law, according to a report from the Wisconsin State Police.

GIRLS EVEN TAKE PLACES OF BOYS ON BALL TEAMS

Despite man's hue and cry about women stepping into man's light in the sun, he already is reconciled to it, if a happening at McKinley Junior high school is any indication. Three baseball teams were formed in the eighth grade club at the school last week, and—hold your breath, ladies—two men captains picked girls on their teams. They'll say they were forced into it, that the girls were in the club and had to be on some team, but the girls are of the private opinion that at last the masculines have begun to appreciate the athletic prowess of their sex.

The three teams have been named after the famous national teams. Robert Goodrich is captain of the Cardinals, Walter Dumke of the Athletics, and Miss Mamie Hall of the Yankees. The latter team is composed of all girls. The committee appointed to arrange a schedule is Gordon Heule, Elmer Davidson and Miss Lillian Oertel.

Most precipitation during the winter of 1927-28 was March and 2.4 inches were reported.

WISCONSIN MAY GET PLANE MOTOR FACTORY

Madison —(P)— Wisconsin's first airplane motor factory may be started in the old Northern Electric Co. plant here.

The Comet engine, a seven cylinder, 150 horsepower plant for planes, manufactured at Oakland, Calif., has been purchased by the Gisholt Machine Co. of Madison, and may be installed in the "Northern Works" of that company, although George Johnson, vice president of the company formed to take over the engine factory has said that no announcement of the change is ready at this time. The Comet engine, now being manufactured by the company in Oakland, is one of the radial type approved by the Department of Commerce.

Airplanes are made in Milwaukee and propellers for the ships are also manufactured there, but of the many Wisconsin motor and machine plants there are none making airplane engines.

BADGER GUARD UNITS COST BELOW AVERAGE

Madison — (AP)—Wisconsin's cost of training and maintaining its national guard units is far below that of the nation as a whole. The average cost over the entire country, according to the Wisconsin National Guard Review, is $298.22 a year. The average expenditure for each Wisconsin guardsman last year was $46.10.

The state guard officials have figured a sample unit, (at Stanley, Wis.) to show the amount of money spent by the federal government in the town where a guard unit is located. The total of field camp, armory drill pay, rifle range rent, purchase of feed for horses, renovation of clothing, range caretaker, animal caretakers, drayage and miscellaneous, amounts to $15,018, and does not include the amount expended by the state on such unit, the Review said.

4 BIG SPORTING EVENTS TO BOOST BUSINESS IN MAY

Hundreds of Millions of Dollars Will Be Distributed in Country

BY J. C. ROYLE
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)

New York — Coming sporting events cast their shadows before, and consequently merchants are scrambling to get into the shadows. For hundreds of millions of dollars will be spent in various ways in connection with four sporting events within the next month.

These are picked out merely because their size and prominence make them excellent illustrations of the effect of sport on business, although the aggregate spent on the minor events in that time will be fully up to the totals for the "big four."

All of these events are connected with racing. On Friday more than 50,000 people gather to see the running of the Preakness stakes at the Pimlico track in Baltimore. This will attract the best dressed men and women of the coast, north and south. Thousands of dollars will be spent in gasoline and tens of thousands in railroad fares to get them there. Nearly every woman who attends will have either a new frock, a new hat or some other piece of new wearing apparel, since the gathering means a display of feminine styles as well as equine speed.

$25,000,000 IN WAGES
It is conservatively estimated that $25,000,000 will be wagered on this race, although all of it will not go through pari-mutuel machines at the Pimlico track. Whether or not betting is wrong morally or economically, it will put a large sum into circulation and somebody will spend a great part of it even if their spending curtails the expenditures of the losers. This will be felt all over the nation, for wagering is not confined to those who attend or those in nearby cities and states.

The Preakness will be followed on May 15 by the running of the Kentucky derby. Conditions at Churchill Downs will be similar to those at Pimlico but to a heightened degree. Nearly twice as many people are likely to attend since the pilgrimage to Louisville, Ky., to many in the south, east and west and middle west is like the journey to Mecca to a devout Mohammedan.

Millions will be spent on clothes and $75,000,000 or more probably will be wagered. It is said that E. P. Bradley owner of the favorites, Blue Lakepur, stands to win $500,000 from his wagers in the winter books alone. It will cost a quarter of a million dollars merely to bring the derby candidates to Louisville with their retinues. Hat sales can be expected to go up both from the breakage incident to throwing one's headpiece into the air and from wagers.

MOTOR RACE COMING
On Decoration Day, the motor will replace the horse interest and at least 150,000 people will go to Indianapolis to see the great auto race which has become a classic in world sporting events. The gathering there probably will not be so "dressy" an occasion as the two outlined above, since more people will come in motors, but even here the apparel sales will experience a decided kick forward. The betting will be confined to individual wagers between friends to a good extent, but the aggregate sum spent will be enormous.

There are some 30,000 Americans now in Great Britain and all who can do so probably will make an effort to see the running of the English derby at Epsom Downs on June 5. This will attract the greatest crowd of all, as the infield is free and people of the cities come in droves. In America the average cost of each spectator for admission will be about $2.50 for the events outlined. It is not unreasonable to expect that 10,000 Americans will attend the derby at Epsom and that it will cost them a total of approximately half a million dollars. At least $100,000,000 will change hands in the sweepstakes on the derby alone.

To a lesser degree merchants, transportation companies, oil companies and others will benefit from attendance at the college boat races and commencement baseball games and polo games this spring as well as from the Davis cup tennis matches, and outdoor prize fights. Professional baseball regularly brings a certain revenue to those entirely unconnected with the sport itself.

Don't Delay Treatment Of Cancer, Says Society

Madison — "It is probable that as many cases of cancer can be prevented as cured."

This is the hopeful title to a statement issued by the Wisconsin State Medical Society in a bulletin today. It declares that the element that often makes cancer a fatal disease is "delay in having it treated." When the public becomes as suspicious of the existence of cancer as it now is of tuberculosis, great strides will be made in checking the progress of the disease. In Wisconsin 3,064 people died of cancer last year.

"Unlike most other diseases," declares the statement issued and approved by the educational committee of the State Medical Society, "against which science is waging organized warfare, there are no sanitary precautions which have any effect upon cancer. The disease occurs without reference to the healthfulness of the environment. The rich and poor are affected alike. The ignorant and intelligent are equally victims."

"Over and over again attempts have been made to connect the causation of cancer with some article of food, either eaten to excess, insufficiently eaten, or harmful because of some property which it was supposed to possess or be deficient in. Many years ago the cause of cancer was supposed to be tomatoes; later, pork; just now it is salt. When subjected to the cold analysis of science, every theory which has thus far been put forward to connect cancer with food has broken down."

"Cancers in some locations can be prevented very simply. It is said by reliable authorities that cancer of the mouth and tongue never occurs among persons who keep their teeth and mouths in good and clean condition. The jagged tooth, the ill-fitting dental plate, rubs until it makes a sore which may develop into cancer. Sores upon the lip may be produced by holding a hot pipe too much in one position. Cancers of the breast are believed to be due in part to stagnation of the natural secretions. Cancer of the stomach are believed to be induced by too hot food, too much strong alcohol or any other abuse of that organ. Skin cancers may be caused. The way to prevent cancers caused in any of these ways is to avoid the conditions which lead to them, and to see the family physician promptly on the appearance of any suspicious signs.

"The most prevalent site of fatal cancer is the stomach, with 38 per cent of the total deaths. The female genital organs were the site of fatal cancers in 14 per cent of all. Cancer of the breast caused 9 per cent of all fatal cases. Cancer of the skin caused 3 per cent of the cancer deaths.

"Cancer is much more likely to make an attack after the age of 35 than before that time, and consequently the death rate is higher in certain age groups than in others. Among all deaths in men between the ages of 45 and 70, one in eight is due to cancer, and among all the deaths which occur among women between 45 and 65, one in five is caused by cancer. Cancer is really the greatest scourge the world has ever known."

LEVITAN OPPOSED TO SMALL LOAN LAW

State Treasurer Suggests Establishment of Free Loan Fund

Madison — (AP)—A definite stand against the small loans law, with a suggestion for a free loan fund established by philanthropy, were made by Solomon Levitan, state treasurer, Thursday.

His statement, to the Wisconsin Bankers association, Group 2, in session here, was the first he had made on the "loan shark law," as its opponents in the 1927 legislative session called it.

"There is no social legislation of these loans," was the chief complaint of the treasurer.

He explained a system in vogue when he attended school in Wilna, Lithuania:

"I was the financial secretary of an organization that loaned money to the poor and needy without interest. I remember the timely help given by that society to the struggling boy or girl, man or woman, out of work or sick, or suffering some other adversity. Seldom did these people fail to pay back within a reasonable time. "With all the poverty that existed in Europe, the people paid from one to five cents a week to carry on the humanitarian work of the free loan association to help those more unfortunate than themselves. I think of this in contrast of this country with its enormous wealth, in which there are organizations that charge 42 per cent annual interest, and which claim they are doing it in the interest of the poor man who finds it necessary to make short time loans. Similar rates of interest have been legalized in many states. Those who worked for the passage of these laws

Lawrence And Beloit Track Teams In Dual Meet Here

Legion Juniors Begin League Play Monday Night

VIKES HAVE EDGE AFTER SHOWING AGAINST OSHKOSH

Denneymen Strong in Dashes and Distance Runs but Weak in Weights

LAWRENCE college track team will find out Saturday afternoon on George A. Whiting athletic field just how it stacks up with Wisconsin colleges for the Vikes are booked to meet Beloit college in a dual meet. Lawrence finished first among the colleges in the University of Wisconsin, Badger college meet a few weeks ago with Beloit right behind them.

Last week Coach A. C. Denney and his Vikings out against Oshkosh state teachers college and the winner in which they cleaned up on the dashes, runs and jumps. The Vikings took a grand slam in six of the events last week losing out only in the weights.

Beloit on the other hand was trying its luck with a triangular meet. Beloit and Oshkosh met at Lake Forest taking second place in North Central college of Naperville, Ill., copping the event. Although it is admitted a still breeze that zoomed across Whiting field added the Vikes set some fast marks in the dashes, Beloit and the other schools failed to equal marks set by the Lawrenceans.

Dash honors for the Vikings probably will be taken care of by Pope and Brussett in the 100 and 220, and Fischel and Rasmussen in the 440. Charley Barnes, Rasmussen and Menning will try the 330 while Menning and Wolf will take care of things in the mile and two mile.

Honors in the broad jump will have to be captured by Pope and Ellis. The latter also will try the high jump along with Danny Calhoun and may enter the pole vault along with Calhoun, Aldrich and Cannon.

The shot put and discus will be up to Humphrey, Vincent and Tiay Krohn. They haven't broken any records to date but late practices have been entirely pleasing to Coach Denney and he hopes they'll win a couple places for him this season. Humphrey and Rasmussen will enter the javelin.

Lawrence's main weakness is in the hurdles both high and low. Olsen has been the best Viking bet in the event, and it may be his time to crash through with a victory Saturday.

SHARKEY STARTS NEW BALLY-HOO

But Experts Wonder if He Isn't Desirous of Seeing His Name in Print

BY JOHN J. ROMANO

NEW YORK, 1929. Sharkey is annoyed because he was panned so much about his poor showing at Miami Beach and assumed the role of a challenger. Jack wants to fight Tommy Loughran and his manager is on record as having offered to fight Loughran for the Dempsey-Fugazy-Cole combine. As Sharkey's contract with the Madison Square Garden Corporation prohibits Sharkey's participation in a contest before September it looks to the writer as if Sharkey is up to his old tricks; seeing his name in print.

If Sharkey was sincere about fighting a real heavyweight he would have to look no further than his own city of Boston. Eddie Mack of that city has offered Johnny Buckley several chances to tangle with Ernie Schaaf and so far Buckley finds something interesting out the window to occupy his attention.

Ernie Schaaf must have something or the first line heaves would not avoid him as they do. Max Schmeling is hooked to a contract with Schaaf but wants to pass it up as bad medicine. Jim Maloney would much rather fight Con O'Kelly King Solomon or Johnny Rusko rather than fight the navy champion. The same goes for Tommy Loughran who has been fooling around with promoters in this city, Chicago, Detroit and Boston seeking to make them ante up big money for a light heavyweight titular fight.

Loughran wants plenty of money to defend his crown but is willing to take less to fight the heavyweights. Loughran is willing to fight Jack Sharkey whom he thinks is duck soup for him but shies when the name of Ernie Schaaf is mentioned. Most likely Loughran figures Sharkey has played up and would be easy to outbox whereas Schaaf is a young, vigorous battler who mixes up no little boxing with his powerful punches.

The air is full of challenges but little else happens. Woray debates fill the air but the scratch of a pen signing a contract is absent.

AMATEUR HEAVY TITLE BELONGS TO NEW YORKER

New York, (P)—The National A. C. U. heavyweight boxing crown rests on the brow of Ralph Fieuello, of New York.

Fieuello battered Charles Hanson, another New Yorker, into decisive defeat at international boxing tournament at Madison Square Garden Thursday night to win the title.

Fieuello and Hanson both had been beaten by Elmer (Buddy) Howard at the recent national championship in Boston but Howard was declared ineligible by the A. C. U. and deprived of the title. Fieuello and Hanson when were authorized to meet for the championship.

A carefully organized point system gives a systematic basis for awards for participation in athletics and outdoor activities. The first award is an attractive felt emblem presented for the earning of 150 points. A bronze medal is given for 600 points, and the highest award an "A" is given when 1,000 points are earned.

The association offers a program of athletics open to every member of the school. This program includes field, hockey, basket ball, free throw, volley ball, baseball, tracks and field, tennis, golf and swimming.

For girls interested in activities other than those mentioned the following outdoor activities are rated for points: Skating, skiing, tobogganing, swimming, canoeing, rowing, golf and tennis. Hike leaders take charge of hiking groups who wish to so earn points.

Besides the athletic program the association has undertaken several projects this year: An athletic hall of fame; girls health trail movement; sponsored marquette basketball game; gave two banquets, presented girls basket ball teams with jackets; cooperating with G. R. for Poppy day sale.

In order to carry on this extensive program funds were raised by selling things at games and giving monthly matinee dances.

Hank Johnson Wild But Yankees Beat St. Louis

Old Alex in Best Form and Cards Beat Boston Braves, 5 to 1

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

HANK JOHNSON is a powerful force, as may be seen from the standing of the clubs in the American league today. The Yankees lead with a percentage of .750 just when everybody had agreed that they were plunging into the midst of a batting slump overdue for almost three years.

At the precise moment when the other seven clubs began to take hope, the Yankees began to hit. Eight solid blows off Sammy Gray in eight rounds and two more off Ed Strelecki in the ninth netted the champions enough margin for a 7 to 3 victory over the Browns at Sportsman's Park Thursday, a clean-up of three games in St. Louis, six straight in the west and seven straight, east and west.

The death blow Thursday was dealt by Signor Antonio Lazzeri, who thoughtlessly drove one of Gray's choice benders into the left field seats in the sixth after Koegel had doubled and Ruth and Gehrig had singled. The big inning not only broke a 1 to 1 tie beyond repair, but also placed the game beyond the reach of any generosity by Henry Johnson, who celebrated his return to duty as a starting pitcher by Franking nine Browns to wild base.

The wildness of Mr. Johnson did little or no damage, as the Browns were too busy ducking. Yankee hits to add any substantial hitting on their own account. They did get seven hits from time to time, but not in the pinches. Eleven of the Howley troops died on base.

The position of the Yankees is little different today from what it was this time last year, except that the Athletics are holding to the pace of the champions. The Browns, ambitious before the Yankees began to hit, already are four losing games behind the Hugmen and three to the rear of the second-place Athletics. Again habit figures. The Yankees have a traditional habit of knocking off in person any club which seems dangerous, and it appears that the Browns unwittingly advertised themselves as something of a ball team by cleaning up the west before the champions arrived.

The Athletics matched strides with the Yanks Thursday by winning their final clash in Chicago by 9 to 2 behind the steady pitching of George Earnshaw. The Macks now have only Cleveland and Detroit to face—but so have the Yankees, which makes it unreasonable to suppose that the McGillicuddy troops will register any marked gain through the rest of the invasion. The Yankee lead over the A's nevertheless remains just half a game, and almost anything can happen to half a game.

NATS BEAT TIGERS Washington broke up Detroit's six-game winning streak Thursday, 6 to 3, perhaps to ease the shock of the Yankee arrival at Navin field Friday.

Cleveland noded out the Red Sox by a 4 to 3 in a well-played game. The reaction from a no-hit party found the Giants cracking up under the impact of Earl Sheely's eighth-inning home run at Polo Grounds Thursday. Two Pirates were aboard when Earl's mace descended, and Burleigh Grimes pulled out his sixth straight triumph over the Clan McGraw since he was traded down the river to Pittsburgh before the start of the 1928 season. The score was 4 to 3, including a beautiful homer within the field by Bill Terry in the fourth.

ALEX IN RARE FORM Meanwhile the Cubs and the Cardinals were matching step for step with each other into a more substantial lead. With old Alex the great at his best, the Cards trimmed Harry Seibold and the Braves by 5 to 1 in Boston while the Cubs were gorging on milk and honey in Flatbush. The Robins were subdued by 11 to 2, and even the two eluded drill-master Robinson until the final round when Jake Flowers hit a homer with Hendrick on base.

The Cub-Cardinal dual triumph left Generals McCarthy and Southworth running one-two in that order with just a game between them. Boston still is only slightly to the rear.

The Cincinnati Reds broke up a three game winning streak for the Phillies when Jake May came to the rescue of Kenneth Ash and pulled the Hendricks troops through to a 7 to 5 victory in the last game of the series.

BANKS BEAT PAPER COMPANY TEAM, 25 TO 7

Rattling up 23 hits that were good for 25 runs, the Bankers walloped the Riverside paper company team in Thursday evening's softball game at Pierce park. The teams are members of the National softball league. The final score was Bankers 25, Riverside 7.

The Bankers started their field day soon after the opening inning and counted three runs in the first and seven in the second frame. They then added to their totals in every inning except the sixth and when it was all over rushed out for an adding machine to complete the totals. The most runs the papermakers got was two in the third inning.

H. S. TRACK SQUAD MEETS MANITOWOC THIN GLADS IN DUAL

Contest Saturday Afternoon Will Show Strength of Orange

APPLETON and Manitowoc high schools will join in a dual track meet to be held at Manitowoc Saturday afternoon. Last week the Orange was guest of Manitowoc at the annual conference relays, the Shipbuilders getting three of the honors, the Orange the fourth and barely missing getting another.

However, Coach Joseph Shields held back in the special events and the squad he takes to the lake shore track Saturday may surprise a few of the boys in the conference.

Dash honors for the Orange will be carried by Bobby Kunitz, Ray Crane, Wolfgram and Krahnold, as formidable a gang as ever trod the cinder paths. The 440 will be up to Batley and he probably will be entered in the half mile, too. Syl DeYoung will be able to run the mile in any man's meet and if he is in the same condition as last week the big Fourth warder should win handsily.

Marston is booked for the high jump and he undoubtedly will win in a walk. Last week he negotiated the bamboo for what at first was thought to be a new record but when the sag was measured he had to be content with just the winning jump.

Bob Neller should cop the pole vault points for Shields and entourage. He won second place last week losing to a youngster from East Green Bay, after the two had battled long and hard to set a new record.

Whether the Orange can accomplish anything against Manitowoc in the discus, shotput and javelin remains to be seen. They didn't fair so well last week in open competition but neither did the Shipbuilders. The meet will give Coach Shields a lineup on how well his outfit will look in the Lawrence meet next week and just what events he will have to concentrate on in order to cop the valley track title here on June 1.

FOUR TEAMS WILL PLAY SERIES OF GAMES THIS MONTH

Best Boys in Squads Will Be Picked for Oney Johnston Post Team

Sixty Appleton youngsters who aspire to be baseball players attended the meeting called at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening and helped organize the American legion junior baseball league from which the legion entry in the national baseball tourney will be picked.

Four teams will make up the league this season and they will play a series of games beginning on May 13 and continuing through to May 31. Six games will be played by each team and the season will start Monday evening, according to Eddie Starnard who is in charge of the league.

The four teams which will make up the loop are the Aces with Bucky Knoll as manager, the Juniors with E. Mortell, manager, the Cubs with Charles Saunders manager and the Cards with Joe Moosens manager. The bosses and Eddie Starnard have arranged the membership of each squad so that all players will get a chance to show their stuff at least once.

Starnard is all pepped up about his charges this year and has what he believes to be the choicest lot of young ball players in the city. After the league schedule is played he will pick a squad of about 14 of the best men to represent Oney Johnston post in the district games and possibly in the state meet.

All games in the league will begin at 5.15, according to Starnard. The schedules follows:

- May 13, Aces vs Cards, Interlake park; Juniors vs Cubs, Interlake park.
- May 15, Aces vs Cubs, Interlake park.
- May 17, Juniors vs Cards, Interlake park.
- May 20, Aces vs Juniors, Interlake park; Cubs vs Cards, Brands park.
- May 22, Cards vs Juniors, Interlake park.
- May 24, Cubs vs Aces, Interlake park.
- May 27, Juniors vs Cubs, Brands park; Cards vs Aces, Interlake park.
- May 29, Aces vs Juniors, Interlake park.
- May 31, Cubs vs Cards, Interlake park.

THREE EYE PITCHER HURLS NO-HIT GAME

Terre Haute, Ind.—(P)—"Lefty" Wolfe, mound ace for the Quincy club of the Three Eye league, is the latest recruit to the no-hit, no-run baseball ranks.

Wolfe pitched his perfect game against Terre Haute Thursday. He walked four men and hit one batsman, but only two tots arrived at second. Quincy won, 10 to 0.

New Golf Ball Goes Into Use, January 1931.

NEW YORK (P)—A new golf ball, lighter and larger than the one described by the United States Golf Association as being much easier to hit, will go into country-wide use on Jan. 1, 1931.

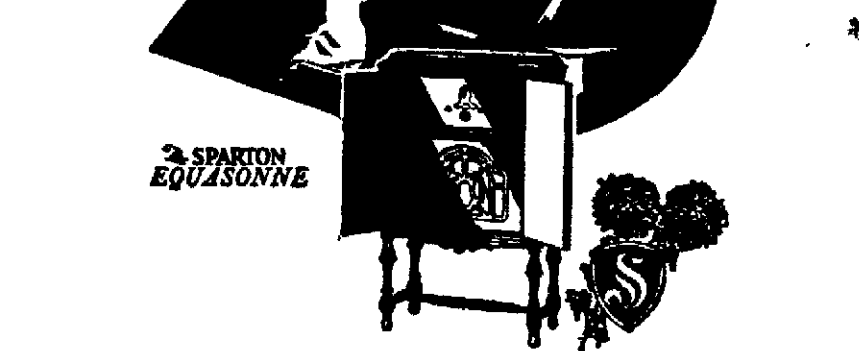

Five years of experimentation have resulted in the development of an "improved" ball, 1 1/8 inches in diameter and 1.55 ounces in weight, the association announces. The present standard ball is 1 1/2 inches in diameter and weighs 1.62 ounces.

The advantages of the new ball, as the association sees them, are that it provides for the average golfer an easier ball for play in all departments of the game. "Actual play with the new ball," said Prescott S. Bush, secretary of the U. S. G. A., "has demonstrated that its increased size makes it easy to hit and that it lies better under all conditions. For the extremely long hitters there is a slight reduction in yardage, while the approaching and putting qualities are proved to be far superior to that of the ball now in use."

Adoption of the new ball may involve difficulties in international play. The royal and ancient Golf club of St. Andrews, ruling power of British Golf, recently declined to tamper with the ball as it now is made. With different balls in use here and abroad it will be necessary, for the two golf ruling bodies to decide which shall be used in international play.

In reaching its decision to change the size and weight of the pellet, the U. S. G. A. announced it had the backing of the leading players and the manufacturers.

Herbert Jacques, chairman of the U. S. G. A.'s implements and ball committee, said tests had proved that drives of 240 to 25 yards would be reduced about six yards by use of the new ball. Two yards of that loss will be on the carry and the other four on the roll. This loss, however, is more than made up by increased efficiency with iron and putters, Jacques maintained. He summed up its advantages by saying that it is easier to hit, rides higher out of the rough, is better controlled, "sticks" to the greens and is a "beautiful" putting ball.

PLYE SAYS HE IS MAKING MONEY ON NEW UNION DERBY

Promoter Went Into the Red
$100,000 Last Year With Marathon

BY ALAN J. GOULD
NEW YORK (AP)—Well, the celebrated union derby has covered some 1,800 miles, more than half the trek from New York to Los Angeles. The answer to this may be to rawn and inquire: What of it? On the other hand, it may also be worth noting that C. C. Pyle, in his second transcontinental journey, seems about to get a "break."

The race may not be bigger and better in all the respects that Mr. Pyle expected. He has had his troubles and attachments. But the 1929 grind is faster and closer than last year's contest. What is more important from the promoter's viewpoint, it gives promise of profit, where a year ago the enterprising gentleman was without much chance of anything like $100,000 "in the red" when he reached New York.

From Mr. Pyle, at Sherman, Texas, comes this word by request: "Financially I am $75,000 better off now than I was at this stage last year and if things continue as they have since we crossed the Mississippi river I can expect to make a reasonable profit on the venture."

Evidently the eastern half of the country takes its union derbies as they come along without much enthusiasm, by comparison with the wide open spaces. But is Promoter Pyle discouraged? Not while he still can breathe this defiance:

"I am still convinced that transcontinental footracing has a great future and I intend to make the union derby an annual event, despite all the wriths of attachment that were ever issued."

BREWS WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT CONTEST

Milwaukee Club Has Climbed to Sellar to Fifth Place

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago (AP)—The Milwaukee team seems to have waded out of its long jinx and is hurrying forward to the first division in the American Association flag chase.

The Brewers, who came back home from the east with such a miserable record, that they were embedded in the cellar, won in fifth place Friday and riding high on the crest of a four-game winning streak, Columbus was the latest victim of the rejuvenated Cream City club, losing a 10 to 7, decision Thursday. Indianapolis, 1928 titleholder, to the Hickey circuit, meanwhile continued to ride the toboggan. The Indians were dropped, 6 to 4, by the rampant St. Paul club Thursday. St. Paul's victory, Toledo's 6 to 4 victory over Kansas City and Minneapolis' 15 to 6 triumph over Louisville tightened the first division standings Thursday, and Friday the Blues were virtually tied for first place by the Millers. St. Paul was in third place, a game and a half behind the leader.

Loose fielding and erratic pitching toppled Kansas City Thursday. The Blues outthrew the Mud Hens 10 and 7, but four errors helped Casey Stengel's men to win. Minneapolis continued its heavy hitting, making 11 hits off three Louisville pitchers. Polli was the hero of St. Paul's victory, he held the Indians in check and smashed out a home run with a man on base to get the winning margin. Columbus ... 200 010 200 5 11 1 Milwaukee ... 139 000 60x 10 11 Harris and Shinnault; Robertson and McMenemy.

KAPLAN, WALLACE WILL MEET TONIGHT

Former Feather Champ Was Knocked Out by Cleveland
lander in 1926

New York (AP)—Two of the country's leading lightweight contenders, Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, and Billy Wallace, Cleveland slugger, meet in a ten round match in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Kaplan enters the bout eager for revenge for a five round knockout he suffered at Wallace's flailing fists in 1926. Expert opinion, however, predicts that he will not succeed in beating the Cleveland puncher. Wallace rates a 7 to 5 favorite. Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle Negro and Jack Berg of England meet in the semi-final of the all-lightweight card. Joe Gluck, Williamsburg pants presser, meets Luis Vincenzini, of Chile, in another ten rounder.

OSHKOSH YOUTH GOES TO HOSPITAL AFTER K. O.

Oshkosh (AP)—Billy Zeiter, Oshkosh's featherweight, was taken to a hospital after having been knocked down five times in two rounds and then knocked out by Winston Thomas, New London, at an amateur boxing show here Thursday night. He was unconscious for about a half hour before doctors revived him. In the opening round Zeiter was knocked to the canvas four times, three of which he took counts of eight, nine and five. At the opening of the second round he took another count of eight. Thomas landed the final blow to the jaw after Zeiter was on his feet again.

And every time Zest, a son of Zev, goes out he has to have a special pony. And he is owned by the stable in which Jack Dempsey has an interest. Carnegie Foundation To Pan Grid Practices

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
Copyright 1929
NEW YORK—Rumor of a very definite character is going the rounds that more than one university which excels in athletics, particularly in football, is going to be panned in the report of the Carnegie Foundation investigation into the conduct of intercollegiate athletics in this country.

Particular stress, it is said, will be laid upon the methods of securing varsity material which alumni employ. Examine, of course, knows that alumni of every up and coming college direct playing fodder into their universities; otherwise they would not be up and coming. They would be playing football in an environment of wooden stands, or small privately built concrete stadia, and the development of intramural sports would be in a pathetic state of malnutrition.

But that the universities have any concrete evidence that one boy, a perfectly good student, who is studying hard and playing a cracking game of football is in college under different circumstances than another boy who also is up in his classes and also playing football, or different from still another boy who isn't playing football at all, is not in any case to be believed. And when it comes down to that—with all due respect to the Carnegie Foundation the advancement of teaching—what if he is, granted the student is fulfilling his scholastic duties in a satisfactory manner?

Diegel's Putter Bad; Loses Open Golf Lead

Hagen Leads British Rivals
at Start of Last Nine Holes

Muirfield, Scotland (AP)—Leo Diegel, deep in the throes of a putting slump, surrendered the lead in the British open championship to Walter Hagen at the end of 54 holes of the 72 hole competition. Diegel, who led after 36 holes, required 82 strokes Friday while Hagen was around 75. Hagen's total of 217 gave him a lead of four strokes over the second place player, Percy Alliss, of Great Britain.

Diegel with a total of 222 for 54 holes was tied with Abe Mitchell, Great Britain, for third place. Johnny Farrell, open champion of the United States, scoring 223, was fifth. Farrell's score for the third round was 76. Farrell finished his third round just as Hagen started on his fourth and last test.

Diegel lost his lead on the greens. He took three putts at five different holes on his round. The British pinned their hopes on Alliss and Mitchell with a hope that Hagen would crack. There was no enthusiastic conviction that the champion's game would collapse. Hagen played sensational golf on

CANZONERI GETS CHANCE TONIGHT

Can Redeem Himself for Defeat in Hands of Routis
Recently

Chicago (AP)—Tony Canzoneri, sturdy Italian puncher from New York, gets a chance to gain revenge Friday night when he tangles with the dashing Frenchman, Andre Routis, in the main 10 round event at the Chicago stadium.

Ever since Routis took the featherweight crown from him by the decision route, Canzoneri has been seeking a return engagement. While the title will not be at stake Friday night, Canzoneri hopes to prove his contention that he was weakened by weight making on the night of their championship affair and was not up to his usual standard. Canzoneri, who will have about a three pound edge on his rival, was a slight favorite. The winner has been promised a match with Ted Morgan for the world's junior lightweight title.

Two other 10 round bouts, bringing together Otto von Forst, Norwegian heavyweight, and Jack de Mave of Holland and Honeyboy Finnegan of Boston and Armando Santiago of Cuba are on Friday night's program, which is expected to attract a crowd of 20,000.

GRAIN GROWERS IN MIDST OF SERIOUS WORLD PRICE WAR

Chicago (AP)—While congress is arguing about farm relief, the grain growers of this country find themselves engaged in a world price war as severe as any within their memory.

Argentina and Canada have entered the fray with a whoop—better able to meet big cuts because of their lower production costs. The American farmer, with his wheat wheat crop to be on the way to market in less than a month, from the Texas sector, will find the fight waged right in his territory.

How serious is this war, is indicated by the statement of grain carrying railroads that an emergency of national proportions exists, necessitating every possible aid to the removal of this country's surplus into export channels. Proposed freight rate cuts, to aid in moving this grain, have only emphasized the seriousness of the problem.

The world finds itself surfeited with wheat. The surplus from last year's crop in this country alone amounts to nearly 200,000 bushels. An almost bumper wheat crop of about 625,000 bushels is soon to be on the way to market. Almost ideal conditions have prevailed over the spring wheat territory. On top of this Canada is preparing to plant a larger acreage than ever before.

Eastern and western railroads, acting presumably with the approval of the national administration, proposed to cut rates on wheat temporarily to a level 5 to 10 cents a bushel under those prevailing. This act was expected to speed the old crop to market through export channels.

CHALLENGE IN MET
But Argentina and Canada quickly met the challenge. They slashed their prices under those which the United States would be able to offer and set out to secure their hold on European and other world markets.

Then the battle was on. Prices have dropped steadily on the grain exchanges until they have reached a level lower than at any time since 1924 when the markets were demoralized. May wheat reached $1.05 a bushel and July wheat, representing the new winter wheat crop was down below $1.10. For the grain grower this slash in futures prices represents a ruinously low return on the cash wheat.

The price war has given farmers an indication of the possibilities in competition to dump grain on the markets of Europe. Likewise, it has shown the effect of a tariff on grain, so long as there is a surplus remaining for export. The wheat tariff now is 40 cents a bushel and it is proposed to raise it to 42 cents. This is about half of what the farm actually would receive for a bushel of wheat at the prevailing level.

Exporting countries, instead of jumping at the chance to import low priced wheat, have adopted a policy of watchful waiting. They are plying to see the producing countries fight out their battle while the consumers benefit.

Leading grain traders today expect that handlers of wheat in Argentina and Canada will see the ideal conditions have prevailed over the spring wheat territory. On top of this Canada is preparing to plant a larger acreage than ever before.

Eastern and western railroads, act-

speed up their buying, grain traders look for but little real improvement in this situation.

RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL

CHAPTER XXVII

"Then you do not believe that the theft was planned?" Stephen sat up suddenly. "How?" he asked.

As Short answered with a question of his own he observed Stephen closely. "Hasn't it occurred to you that this man Flint is a suspicious character?"

"He might be," Stephen agreed. "Short got up to go. There was a matter he wanted to attend to at once."

"We'll have a report for you in a few days," he said to Mr. Mettles. On the street he hastily called a cab and gave the address that Stephen had written after Lefty's name on the list of persons desiring road tests of the agency's cars.

Back in the office, Stephen was learning, greatly to his surprise, that he was not to lose his position. He felt that his future with the agency was doomed. No doubt, he thought, Mr. Mettles was only keeping him on to close a few sales he had in prospect when, very likely, he would be kicked out.

When he got to his room he remembered that he had a date with Pamela. And he felt as much like keeping it as he did like sitting on a flagpole. But he thought he'd better call her up. She might let him off. Pamela most emphatically refused to consider it. "Margola is giving the thing in our honor," she said of the party to which Stephen was to take her. "Our engagement, you know."

"You said you wouldn't announce it until your father came home," Stephen reminded her.

"It's nothing formal. Nobody will take it seriously until dad gives it out," Pamela assured him. "But you're not going to let me down tonight, Steve, old dear?"

"All right," Stephen said resignedly. "But I'm feeling punk, Pam."

"Well fix you up," Pamela promised. "Don't be late."

Stephen changed to his evening clothes with anything but pleasant anticipation of the evening ahead of him. He wondered what Pamela would say when she learned what had happened. He hadn't even what prospects to marry on now. And he was going to live on his wife's money. Very likely her father would squash the engagement anyhow.

He got up to go with a feeling that the day had been a disastrous one for him. As he swung down the street he was unaware that his leaving the hotel had been noted by a keen watcher across the street. Pamela was stirring rock candy in her demi-tasse when Stephen joined her in the dining room of the Judson Hotel.

"Nervous?" she smiled at him. "Bad day," Stephen replied.

Pamela pouted. "You don't look at all as if you liked being engaged," she said childishly.

The remark irritated Stephen. "Suddenly Stephen reached out and touched her hand. 'If I lose you, Pam,' he said, 'I'll never get over it.'"

Pamela looked at him in astonishment. "Are you rattling a skeleton at me?" she asked. "You sound suspiciously like a person with a past."

"Not a past," Stephen confided, "but a damned uneasy present with a most uncertain future."

Pamela laughed. "Don't let it get you," she advised. "Marriage isn't such a responsibility anymore."

Stephen did not smile. "Don't joke, Pam," he said earnestly. "I'm in a hole."

Pamela shrugged. "Well, what of it?" she returned lightly. "Dad will get you out."

Stephen groaned. "He'll get you out, you should say," he said miserably.

ably. "Your father will never let you marry a man with no future."

"Oh what is the trouble?" exclaimed impatiently.

Stephen told her all that had happened that day. "Is that what's spoiling our evening?" she cried unfeelingly. "I thought it was something serious."

"It will be serious when old D. A. M. gives me the gate and I've nowhere to go," Stephen declared.

"Don't be silly; you'll find another position."

"That's only half the trouble," Stephen persisted. "Can you, Pam, dear, live on the money I'm able to earn?"

Pamela looked at him with melting eyes. "Of course, Steve, darling," she whispered tenderly. She hadn't, as a matter of fact, the barest idea of what living on a small salary meant.

Stephen believed her. His burden became lighter, but he'd have sunk instantly to hopelessness if he'd known that the man who had furiously watched his departure from his hotel was at that moment in his, Stephen's, room, on a silent and malicious errand.

Or that Carl Short was more than ever convinced of his guilt. Short had not been able to get in touch with Lefty, but his failure did not occasion him any surprise. It only confirmed his belief that Stephen had warned the man he was under suspicion.

But Short wasn't worried over that, either. So long as Stephen felt himself secure it would be possible to reach Lefty Flint simply by shadowing the former. What Short wanted was information that would prove beyond a doubt that Lefty was a pilfering character. This he got easily enough.

Which was exactly what Duke Brogan and Huck Connor had had in mind when they polished off their plans for framing Stephen.

At this point in his handling of the case Short went home and to bed.

Stephen could not see the black cloud that was gathering over his head there was one who prayed tearfully that harm would not befall him.

When Harold had gone to Mildred after his visit to Huck's room at the time Huck had avowed his intention of ruining Stephen, he was in a pitiable condition indeed. His resistance was at an end and the temptation to unburden himself to Mildred was almost overpowering. His knowledge of her love for Stephen alone held him back. He couldn't depend upon her to keep his secret. And even if he did not tell her that Huck had threatened Stephen he knew that she would not remain silent with Pamela in danger.

Mildred saw at once that he was in an unusually anguished state of mind.

He sat down, got up again, walked to the radio, tuned it in, tuned it out, sat down again, got up.

Mildred couldn't stand it. She signaled Connie out of the room and then she told Harold to sit down.

She put her hands on his shoulders in a comforting way and begged him to tell her what was wrong.

"Something," she said frankly, "has to be done for you, Harold. If you refuse to let me help you I'm going to Mr. Dazel and have him cable your father."

Harold jerked up his head. "For God's sake, Mildred, don't do that," he screamed.

"Then tell me what Huck Connor is doing to you," Mildred bargained. "Harold sank his face in his hands again and Mildred waited.

With a painful gulp in his throat Harold looked up and spoke. "He's got something that... I don't want dad to see," he said.

Feng Yu-Hsiang Stands Alone In China For His Picturesque Reforms

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS
(Associated Press Correspondent)

Shanghai, China.—(AP)—Among the crowd of China's ward lords and politicians, most of whom differ from each other just as tweedledee differs from tweedledum, Feng Yu-Hsiang, the mystery man, stands picturequely alone with his eccentric reforms, his personal "crankiness" and his undetermined political allegiance.

The fate of China's rival factions and the relative strength of northern and southern leaders might be more easily grasped if Feng would openly adhere to one or the other, but he keeps inscrutably aloof, waiting for the truth, or perhaps for the winner, to emerge from the confusion of contest.

He was once famous as the "Christian general" and among Chinese Christians, the simplicity of his life and his constant concern for the welfare of the people believed to be intimately related to his religion. Miraculous and legendary halos have been drawn around some of his acts. Nevertheless, there is as much mysterious uncertainty about Feng's religion as there is about his politics. His baptism and interest in Bible teaching are facts, but generally accepted rumors declare that he has recently made a public renunciation of the "foreigners religion" and the marshal himself neither confirmed nor denied the report.

OTHERS SHARE PURITANISM
Beyond all doubt, in the life and work of this unusual man, there is much simplicity and selflessness. More interesting still, Feng's Puritanism has not stopped with himself; all with whom he comes in contact must share it. That has not increased his popularity in all quarters. On the occasion of his first visit to Nanjing, the national capital, his coming was preceded by a moral crusade instituted by the mayor. Gambling was forbidden, opium smokers were hunted down with renewed zeal and sing-song houses were closed.

Arrived in the capital, Feng called on the ministers of the Nationalist government. He made his calls riding, not in a motorcar, as is the custom, but in a truck sitting beside the chauffeur with two or three military guards behind. He received visitors only from 5 to 7 o'clock in the morning and had a straw shelter constructed inside the gateway to his house where all could wait their turn. By granting interviews until 7 o'clock, the marshal relaxed his usual rigid rule of seeing newspapermen only at 5 o'clock a. m. Even then, he caused some disturbance in the habits of foreign correspondents.

Feng is an enthusiastic follower of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen. Of Sun's three principles, the one of which the general places most emphasis is that concerned with the livelihood of the people. He maintains that officials are the servants of the people and have no right to enrich themselves while there is poverty in the country. Due to his influence the hopes of higher officers in the Nationalist army for increases in salary the first of this year were dashed. He proposed that the pay of the higher officers be reduced and that of the lower officers and soldiers be raised.

QUESTION OF SALARIES
In Honan, one of the provinces which Feng controls, all official salaries, civil and military, irrespective of rank, were at one time leveled to $10 a month. An appeal against this state of affairs was answered by the governor with a summons to a public gathering attended by the disaffected office holders and a troop of soldiers in full equipment. Feng himself presided at the meeting. First the protesting magistrates were invited to state their case. Then the provincial treasurer gave an exposition of his budget, showing clearly that all available public resources were far from adequate for necessary public works and reforms. Then Feng addressed the soldiers, praising their bravery, patriotism and sacrifices. "What," he asked them, "is your monthly wage for hardships so cheerfully endured?"

"Three dollars," they shouted in unison.

"And how many months is this in arrears?"

"Four," volleyed the soldiers.

"Ah, that is just what has happened to my own salary," concluded the general. Official salaries remained unchanged thereafter, uncomplained about.

Six hours of sleep in 24, four at night and two more in the middle of the day are all that Feng allows himself and the members of his staff. The rest of the time he spends in work. He dresses in a common soldier's uniform or in coolie clothes, never wearing the beautiful silks and satins usual among upper class Chinese.

STARTED IN OWN ARMY
As a reformer, Feng's work began with his own army. Smoking, gambling and drinking are forbidden and severe punishments are meted out, not for the acts, but for disobedience to orders. The punishments sometimes appear disproportionately drastic. An officer has been put in prison for five years with a beating of four hundred blows for smoking one cigar or for being caught at playing mah jong one night.

As governor, Feng follows the same policies he follows as general. He outlaws gambling and all forms of vice. His persecution of opium smoking is unquestionably sincere. Foot-binding among women is forbidden, and, if necessary, the law is forcibly carried out. In the province now under Feng's control there is extreme famine. The army has been put to work building homes for the destitute, constructing roads and forwarding reconstruction generally.

Recognizing that many of his changes are unpopular, Feng says, "You all hate me now, but in five years you will hold a different opinion."

THREE NEARLY DROWN WHEN THEIR BOAT SINKS

Oshkosh.—(AP)—Three Milwaukee men narrowly escaped drowning in Lake Butte des Mortes here Thursday when their 25-foot launch struck a spill and sank with a gaping hole in her bottom.

The men, A. P. Dieman, Tom Johnson, and Allan Fowler, were on their way to Winneconne on a fishing trip when their boat struck the spill. They were rescued by J. L. Hannes, Oshkosh, who heard their cries for help. Hannes was fishing from a skiff anchored nearby and pulled the men out of the water soon after their boat went down.

How To Play Bridge

BY MILTON C. WORK

MR. WORK'S POINTERS ON CONTRACT BRIDGE

"The Auction Player unfamiliar with Contract is apt to be troubled by the big difference between Auction and Contract values for tricks, undertricks, premiums, slams and rubbers, etc. The vulnerability test of Contract is also apt to be confusing.

As a special service to our readers, Mr. Work will be glad to send you upon request, complimentary, a complete statement explaining all these new features, provided you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply. Mr. Work also answers all Auction and Contract questions without charge."

Contract is attracting many new players and it is only natural that many points of difference between it and Auction Bridge should be but imperfectly understood; and of all those that give trouble, the vulnerability question probably creates more difficulty than any other. At the start many considered the vulnerability provisions too hard to master; really that is not so, and possibly a few words may help to clarify.

A side is vulnerable when it has won a game. When both sides have won a game, then both sides are vulnerable. "Does not express accurately what is meant, but no better one has been suggested. Being vulnerable means that having a game won, and therefore being within one game of winning the rubber, a more severe penalty is imposed upon you if you bid rashly in an effort to get the rubber and Auction Bridge should be but im-but in a measure of fairness, so as to square up for that extra penalty, an additional premium is allowed to a vulnerable Declarer who is doubled.

The penalty for defeat when vulnerable is quite heavy even when undoubled. It costs only 50 per trick for each undertrick when undoubled, but when vulnerable, if undoubled, costs 100 and each subsequent trick 200; and doubling doubles these values. Even when invulnerable, doubling brings the penalty for undertricks up from 100 for the first two, to 200 for each of the second two, and 400 for the fifth. When a vulnerable declarer is doubled and defeated, the first undertrick costs him 200 and each additional trick he set adds 400 to his losses.

Whether scores are reckoned upon a vulnerable or invulnerable basis depends entirely upon whether a Declarer is vulnerable; it does not matter a particle whether the declarer-les are vulnerable or not. There are some players who think that if they are vulnerable and double a Declarer and defeat him, they are entitled to score undertricks upon a vulnerable basis. They are not, unless the Declarer also is vulnerable; the Declarer's status determines the question. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

THE mails must go. That is why the Universal Aviation Corporation, operating fleets of passenger and mail planes between Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha, Indianapolis, Cleveland and Louisville, choose Stanolind Aviation products to protect their great Wasp and Hornet engines against friction.

The determining factors resulting in this choice were: Quality of Oil and Specialized Lubricating Service.

You may not be interested in airplanes but you gain the advantages to be derived from the work of these lubrication specialists when you use

POLARINE -ISO=VIS

They are exceptional motor oils that hold up under the most trying conditions. They are both sturdy and rich. They maintain protecting cushions of oil on all bearing surfaces. They make the engine run smoothly and keep it from wearing out.

Polarine is effective and economical. The Standard Oil Company has kept it abreast of developments and recommends it to you to give maximum lubrication at minimum cost. Use Polarine and drain the crankcase every 500 miles.

Iso=Vis is the most advanced of motor oils because it will not thin out and because it wears and wears and wears—frequent draining of crankcase is not necessary. Motorists drive 1,000 to 2,000 miles without changing Iso=Vis and every bearing is lubricated correctly on the way.

Use either Polarine or Iso=Vis. You'll save yourself worry and trouble. You'll save your money. You'll save your car. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) recommends both Polarine and Iso=Vis. Buy the grade for your car.

Milwaukee.—(AP)—In order to acquaint Wisconsin citizens with their local hospital and sanatorium facilities, 11 of the 15 county tuberculosis sanatoria will hold open house May 12, in observance of national hospital day, according to Dr. Dearholt, executive secretary of the Wisconsin anti-tuberculosis association.

This is to be the ninth annual observance of the day, which also commemorates the birth of Florence Nightingale, pioneer in modern hospital and nursing methods.

The state Sanatorium, Wales, and Morningside Sanatorium, a semi-private institution, Madison, will also join in the observance of the day. GARDEN SOCIETY TO HOLD FLOWER SHOW NEXT MONTH

Organization Hopes to Interest Local People in Flower Culture

Aspiring authors study Dickens, Shakespeare, and Mark Twain; modern painters spend days and weeks imbibing inspiration in the Louvre; and promising poets read volumes of Keats, Tennyson and Milton. They may never attain the skill of their idols, but at least they acquire an appreciation of real art, and are inspired to nobler work because of their familiarity with that which is great.

With this psychology in mind, the Appleton Flower and Garden society, new organization for the promotion of more and better flowers, will sponsor a flower show at the Armory sometime between June 10 and 20, dependent upon weather conditions. The affair will be called a Peony show, but the display will include flowers of all kinds.

The chief purpose of the show is to get more people enthusiastically interested in the culture of flowers, and bring them to a greater appreciation of the beauty and utility of them. The exhibit of some of the most perfect flowers grown in Appleton will tend to teach amateur gardeners how good flowers should look, and other features planned for the show will show flower growers what blossoms, shrubs, and trees can do to beautify the home. The show will offer gardeners an opportunity to compare their products with those of their neighbors, and permit them to enter into discussions about the ways and means of raising good flowers with other contestants at the exhibit.

A spectacular feature of the exhibit will be a miniature city lot, with house and garage and the surrounding land artistically laid out with shrubs, flowers, trees and a vegetable garden. The greens will be seen in the actual process of growing, and will be so boxed that they can be returned to the ground after the show without hindering their normal growth. It is hoped that this part of the show will provide an inspiration to visitors to make more energetic attempts at beautifying their own homes.

Inside and outside window boxes will be on display, and the method of constructing shadow boxes will be demonstrated, and the method of constructing shadow boxes will be demonstrated. It also is planned to present suggestions on the use of flowers in the home, and as plans materialize other ideas for a more inspiring flower show are anticipated. Prizes for the best flowers presented will be offered.

A great deal of interest already has been evinced in this project, and
